HUERTA'S RETIREMENT OBJECT MOST DESIRED

HOW TO DEAL WITH MEXICO'S "DICTATOR" IS PROBLEM CONFRONTING U. S.

FEELING OUT EUROPE

THIS GOVERNMENT DESIRES TO KNOW WORLD ATTITUDE.

NO DENIAL OF INTERVENTION

Official Silence Indicates Drastic Measures Are to Be Used Soon.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Though every official of the United States government has been cautioned to maintain absolute silence while the plans of the Washington administration for solving the Mexican problem are worked out, it became known today that a supreme effort is being made to bring about General Victoriano Huerta's retirement from the provisional presidency of Mexico.

The success of any plan for a constitutional election that may be proposed, and especially in so far as it would contemplate participation by the constitutionalists, depends in the view of the United States government on the elimination of Huerta. Since he promised to turn over the executive power after an election, the American government is now waiting for some declaration on his part.

Should Huerta retire in favor of another there is a possibility that the United States may attempt to compose the situation through his successor. But if the elections are declared invalid by Huerta, so that he may continue in power, the Washington administration, it is pointed out, would look upon such a proclamation as an evidence of the incapacity of the provisional authorities to conduct an election and might come forth with definite proposals to assist in habituating the governmental machinery of the country. Just now the future policy of the United States is being quietly and informally made known in diplomatic circles abroad and there are intimations that many days for foreign governments generally will have been apprised of the American attitude. It is unlikely that there will be any publication of the American policy until Europe has been formally sounded out.

What the United States desires, it is believed, is that the powers shall indicate their support of their efforts to solve the problem so that it may approach the Mexican City administration in a final effort to secure the elimination of Huerta.

The conference at Vera Cruz between John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, and the Russian, Norwegian and German ministers has not been explained here, but it is thought to be a part of the program of enlisting the support of foreign governments.

Senators Confer with President.
Senator Bacon, chairman of the foreign relations committee, conferred with President Wilson at the White House late today, but declined to discuss his visit. Asked for his views on the situation in general, the Georgia senator said the one thing needed to insure a peaceful settlement of the Mexican problem was for the governments of Europe to indicate in some positive way that they intended to leave in the hands of the United States the formulation of a policy to be pursued toward Mexico and that they will give the policy their support.

"If this is made clear," he said, "that General Huerta will understand he will be compelled to accede to any demand made by the United States and a peaceful solution of the Mexican problem very promptly would be found."

The belief of many officials is that if the United States can approach Huerta with the united backing of the nations of the world he might yield, but prominent constitutionalists here, who know Huerta's personality, declare he will never retire until force is used.

One of the phases of the situation which is a subject of much comment in official circles is the absence of official denial to the many stories being published every day forecasting intervention.

MESSAGE TO THE U.S.

CARRANZA MAKES AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT TO THE ADMINISTRATION.

Wants Arms Imported to Mexico—Declares This Procedure Would End Struggle.

Nogales, Sonora, Nov. 2.—Through Dr. Henry Allen Tupper of the international peace forum, General Venustiano Carranza, head of the constitutionalists of Mexico, transmitted to the United States government today an official statement which suggests that President Wilson can solve the Mexican problem by merely according to the constitutionalists the right to import arms freely from the United States.

The struggle in Mexico will continue until one side or the other is beaten into helplessness, the statement asserts. It further declares that the constitutionalists are confident of wiping out Huerta and his partisans in a short time if the embargo on arms is lifted.

Carranza came here from Hermosillo, the rebel capital, with Dr. Tupper, who had been with him there for several days.

General Carranza's statement, which was submitted in a formal letter to Tupper, will be communicated by the latter to Secretary Bryan. Tupper telegraphed to Secretary Bryan asking him if he desired the statement. The secretary replied in the affirmative today, adding, however, that it would receive only unofficial attention. Tupper's recommendations and impressions are being considered by the administration.

"Responding to your wish to ascertain the purposes of the constitutionalist party as expressed in your conversation with me, I shall answer in a few words.

"To the first question as to what are the purposes and ideals of the constitutionalists, I answer:

"To continue this armed struggle until the so-called government of Huerta is ousted, as the establishment of peace is not possible until one of the two parties opposing each other in this struggle is annihilated.

"The ideals of our party once obtained triumph are to establish the political and economical reforms the country needs for the betterment and welfare of all classes of society, reforms which will assure a lasting and permanent peace.

"To your second question as to what success has met the declaration of the purposes of the constitutionalists on the battlefield and among the people, I answer:

"Our purposes are being accomplished on the battlefield because of the support the people are giving to our cause. This has been demonstrated by constant triumphs, especially our most recent ones, which are known to all the nation, notwithstanding the steps constantly taken by Huerta to prevent the truth from being learned. His acts have merely contributed to his discredit.

"Your third question as to what are the future purposes of the constitutionalists when we shall have triumphed, I have already answered in answering your first.

"To your fourth question, as to what action and attitude the constitutionalists wish from the United States, I reply:

"The constitutionalists wish that the government of the United States would change its attitude toward us and permit the free importation of arms and ammunition by us and by the Huerta regime also, if the Washington administration so desires.

"That would end the struggle."

Mayas Back at Austin.

Austin, Nov. 2.—Lieutenant Governor Mayas arrived in Austin today, after having delivered a number of lectures on the lyceum circuit that he had booked months ago. His lectures were delivered in Louisiana and the reason he had been made and made because of the death of his father, he had been sent for late in November. Lieutenant Governor Mayas will remain in Austin for several days.

Bonds-Caffery at Temple.

Temple, Nov. 2.—Miss Lora Bonds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bonds and Henry Caffery, both of this city, were married at the rectory of St. Mary's Catholic church here by Rev. A. H. Black. They will continue to make their home in Temple. Both are well known and popular young people.

BATTLERS REST ON THEIR OARS

TAMMANY AND FUSION REVIEW THEIR FORCES—BOTH CLAIM VICTORY.

HENNESSY SAVES SHOT

REPORTED GRAFT INVESTIGATOR FIRES LAST VOLLEY TODAY.

PRIZE SEEMS LOST SIGHT OF

In Bitter Assaults and Replies the Office Is Almost a Minor Factor.

New York, Nov. 2.—Tammany and fusion, battling for control of New York City, rested today from the campaign and reviewed their forces.

"We will win by 150,000," said Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, in behalf of Edward J. McCall, democratic candidate for mayor.

"We will win by 150,000," said Robert Adamson, campaign manager for John Purroy Mitchell, fusion candidate for mayor.

With these two predictions offsetting each other, the odds in Wall Street betting rings favor Mitchell.

John A. Hennessy, graft investigator of the deposed governor, Wm. Sulzer, and Colossus of the campaign, expected to continue until the twelfth hour his bitter assaults on Murphy, McCall and the democratic organization.

Tonight the bill was theory with rumors that Hennessy had withheld his hottest fire for the last day of the struggle and would deliver it tomorrow.

Hennessy is to speak at many meetings during the afternoon and evening. Sulzer plans to make a final tour of the east side in his two-fold purpose of blighting the aspirations of leaders in his removal from office and insuring his own election to the assembly on the progressive ticket from the sixth district.

With interest focused upon the mayoralty candidates and upon Hennessy and Sulzer and the torrent of vituperation that has been hurled around them for a fortnight, attention has been somewhat diverted from the paramount feature of the fight—the prize. Upon next Tuesday's verdict rests control of New York City, its army of officeholders and employees, its vast expenditure amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars and its thousands of contracts yet to be awarded for the many city improvements planned and in contemplation.

Chief among these are contracts for building portions of the $300,000,000 subway. The foes of Tammany Hall have likened the present to the days of Tweed. They say the chief product of the campaign has chilled the blood of some Tammany leaders, that the time is near when Fourteenth street will know them no more. This by-product, a John Doe investigation of Hennessy's charges directed by District Attorney Whitman, is due for further development tomorrow when Mr. Whitman will attempt to confirm or discredit some of Hennessy's fiery charges of graft and corruption among the wigwag chieftains.

Charles F. Murphy assailed at every hand by fusion orators, is not going to retire. He has not considered it, he said today.

MRS. ELLIE LAKE IS KNOWN HERE

WOMAN HELD IN CONNECTION WITH BROWN CASE VISITED THIS CITY.

PARENTS RESIDE IN WACO

Samuel Werkheiser, her step-father, and her mother leave for Dallas in response to message.

Mrs. Ellie Lake, who is held at Dallas in connection with the Florence Brown murder case, following a confession made by Meade Barr to the grand jury late Saturday night, visited her mother and stepfather several times during the summer. She has a number of acquaintances in Waco.

Samuel Werkheiser, her stepfather, and Mrs. Werkheiser, her mother, live at 3 A. Leila street, Edgewood. Werkheiser is employed in the local yards of a railroad. Mrs. Lake's young son lived with his grandparents for some time, and has recently undergone an operation.

In response to a telegram received yesterday Mr. Werkheiser left in an automobile for Dallas, his wife going to the interurban. Neither of them, it is said, were able to give any information concerning the arrest of their daughter. The telegram simply stated that Mrs. Lake was in difficulty and would come.

Believe Was Right Man.
Dallas, Nov. 2.—The report of the confession of Meade Barr Saturday night, which occasioned a stir in Dallas this morning.

Barr confessed that he killed Florence Brown, pretty stenographer and well known church worker, in the office of Robinson & Styron, 110 Field street, on July 28.

The confession was the source of comment all over the city and for that part all over Texas, for the case has become of statewide interest. Officials Sunday again refused to make known the details of Barr's confession, simply stating it was in substance the same he made to the authorities at Jeffersonville, Ind., where Barr was being detained in the reformatory.

Barr could not be seen by newspaper men Sunday. It was said he was brought to Dallas, but the report could not be verified. It was also stated that he is still held in the Washachie jail. Grand jury action is expected Monday morning, when at 9 o'clock the probers reconvene for a further consideration of the case. Members

WACO'S ELABORATE BUSINESS EXHIBITS

Bishop's Army of Boosters Due Here at Six o'Clock This Morning—All Texas Roads Now Lead to the Cotton Palace City.

Attendance at the Texas Cotton Palace exposition yesterday, the second day, estimated, 8,000.

The second day of the 1913 Texas Cotton Palace marks a record, not alone in point of attendance, but by reason of the fact that keen interest in the exhibits was shown by those who came, and by reason of the fact that yesterday brought people from all parts of the state to Waco.

Sunday was Fort Worth Day at the Cotton Palace. Excursion trains poured their crowds into the city all during the day. It is probable the attendance was the largest for any second day in the history of the exhibit.

In all it was estimated that 8,000 persons passed through the gates, as paid visitors.

Looks Like a Big Day Today.
Today is again expected to be one of the big days of the exposition. It is Hill and Ellis counties, Military, Corpus Christi, and Bishop day. Crowds are expected here from every point. The Bishop Boosters, riding in a special train of six Pullmans, will arrive in Waco over the International and Great Northern at 6 o'clock this morning.

Exhibits at the Cotton Palace yesterday, both commercial and art, held the attention of the thousands who thronged the grounds. Being Sunday and near the opening date of the exposition, the exhibits were fresh and new to every eye.

During the day the central exhibition hall was also the central point around which the multitudes held sway. And the exhibits were worthy of the attention which they attracted. Some of the booths were marvels of beauty and art while others presented merely a representation of the objects which they were expected to display.

Which is a mingling of the commercial and artistic in the exhibits which hold the attention without tiring and which present an educational feature together with a sense of delightfulness.

Day of Pleasure.
Another fair day with an admirable weather favored the big show and the crowds appreciating the gift swarmed to the palace grounds. There they were met with every facility to enjoy themselves and from the happy abandonment with which all joined in viewing the different attractions and exhibits those who attended the Cotton Palace on the second day were well pleased with the show which had been prepared for them.

The program yesterday was somewhat curtailed because of Sunday, but the exhibits and starting was as good as on any day. The principal entertainment in the morning was a musical concert by Ellery's band, which attracted hundreds who made an especial trip to hear the music. Concerts were also given from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 5 to 10 o'clock at night.

On the Warpath.
The Warpath was in its swing, with the backers and amusement places going at their mightiest. This feature attracted the big crowds, who swarmed to see the different shows and amusements. The daredevil bicycle jump from an elevated platform to a pool of water given free, added a thrill to the forenoon, while other performances and shows also drew their share of the attendance.

In all it was a happy crowd which swarmed in and out of the exposition grounds, and its passage writes another marked success upon the Central Texas Cotton Palace.

Standing out foremost as a Sunday attraction were the exhibits in the main building and in manufacturers' buildings and in its about.

In the Main Building.
The main building of the exposition facing the entrance grounds, presents the first invitation with its wide standing doors to the sightseer. Entering this structure the visitor is presented with one of the most interesting scenes of the fair. It is here that the various exhibits have been assembled. On the two floors there is a display of goods manufactured and brought together in the form of exhibits all that goes to make up the necessities, luxuries and conveniences of life, from the most common to the most refined.

Rice, deer, dumb and blind, and Miss Hefflybower, will give demonstrations of the goods manufactured and distributed by this firm.

of a home. Here are assembled the products of Central Texas, and here is shown everything that is artistic, instructive and beautiful. The largest retail establishments as well as the smallest, and the wholesale establishments, are represented.

Two Fine Exhibits.
Two of the principal exhibits are those of two of the largest retail dry goods concerns of the city. The Goldstein-Miguel exhibit occupies a space of 4000 sq. ft. and is a beautifully arranged space where the elite apparel for both lady and gentleman. As a background for the exhibit an Italian garden effect has been attained, with a painting of a palace at the extreme rear and with Italian pagodas on either side. Of especial note is the harmonizing of colors and costume, and the attraction which the handsomely gowned wares figures present. The latest in woman's costume, fur, and accessories is shown, while directly across the aisle photos and toilet department is situated.

The Sanger Bros' exhibit is probably the largest single retail exhibit shown. It is a marvel of beauty, combining the artistic with the effective showing of goods. To the on-looker the background for the show piece seems to have been chosen from among some world famous pictures. It is in the nature of three half open windows, giving a peep at beautiful paintings. In one of the windows is shown a painting of a beautiful scene in nature, with a figure in the foreground. In another a painting of the blacksmith at his task and another a balcony scene. Hanging baskets with charming interior decorations and figures worked in plaster of Paris on the walls form an artistic and effective background.

However, the costumes, and other necessities of life, which are admirably presented on life size figures. In another booth nearby is shown the victrola department of the Sanger in miniature, with accessories.

Educational Exhibits.
Of the educational exhibits the deaf mutes and the state school for the blind have the larger showing. Especially is the work of the deaf of the state school shown. In this booth has been assembled the work of these people in Texas. Almost everything that is manufactured can be seen in this space, all made by deaf. From the clothing, the work, the products of the farm, drawn work and hand painting on both china and canvas are shown. Every visitor to this department is shown carefully through and much pride is evidenced by the deaf in their exhibit. Every visitor who evidences interest is presented with a card showing the deaf alphabet, and on the back of which is a brief history of the state school for the blind. This history shows that the school was founded in 1857, with five pupils. At present there are 425 pupils with thirty-two teachers and twelve instructors and eleven supervisors. The card also states that the school has educated 30 deaf mutes in Texas. Arrangements have been made whereby Miss Ruby of the work in the school beginning on November 8 and continuing during the exposition.

School for the Blind.
The State School for the Blind situated at Austin has an interesting exhibit in one of the annexes to the main exhibition hall. In this exhibit are shown the wonders that have been worked in the instruction of the blind. Almost every manner of manufactured product possible for the blind child to create is shown in the exhibit.

The most varied exhibit and the one in which the people are most interested in educational matters and in the instruction of the youth will spend time in viewing is that of the Waco schools. The result of the manual training department of the schools, a comparative new venture in Waco, casts its hand throughout the entire exhibit. Here drawings from the lower grades show the care with which the little folk has been taught; here also the result of instruction in sewing may be seen, as well as the progress of the woodwork department of the schools. In a glass case are shown three kinds of garments made by the girls of the first year's sewing class. Plain, well-fitting, well-made garments is the motto of the class. In the woodwork department are shown tables, benches, boxes and other useful articles, finished and ready for use.

Daughters of Confederacy.
Of interest to the old timers and to those who have not forgotten their

Sunset Central Employees Are to Vote on Strike

Houston, Nov. 2.—Following numerous joint conferences between officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors and Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen with officials of the Sunset-Central line, a ballot for a strike vote was sent out today by officials of the four organizations to determine the wishes of between 2,500 and 3,000 employees of the company and whether they will ask the grand lodge of officers for permission to strike. In the event the company will not concede to the conditions of a settlement submitted by the employees, the adjustment of 67 grievances which consist in part of alleged violations of contracts and of personal grievances affecting members of the order.

Supreme Court to Decide Validity of State Laws

Washington, Nov. 2.—Further enforcement of a number of state laws depends upon the outcome of arguments to be made orally during the coming week to the supreme court.

The case which has probably attracted the most attention is one from Kentucky, testing the validity of the farmers' pooling act of that state. Patrick Collins and Thomas Malone, tobacco growers, have been fined for selling their tobacco outside a pool after having agreed to enter the pool. Both now contend before the supreme court that the Kentucky statute of 1904, known as the farmers' pooling act, which made it lawful for any number of persons to combine crops to obtain better prices, is violative of the Sherman anti-trust law. They further claim that a state cannot make it unlawful for one to sell pooled tobacco independent of the pool. It is the first time such a law has come before the supreme court. The state of Oklahoma will attempt during the week to induce the court to reverse the decision of the Oklahoma federal courts in holding the Oklahoma corporation act of 1908 invalid. This law provides that any corporation which shall file a claim in a court that is dissolved in another state shall have its license or charter revoked and be subjected to a fine of not less than $1,000.

Later in the week it is expected the Beuchamp case testing the constitutionality of the Illinois child labor law of 1907 will be argued before the court. Arthur Beuchamp, sixteen years old, lost his hand in a press of the Sturges and Burns Manufacturing plant and secured a verdict of $4,000 for his injuries. The company claims that a boy of sixteen is not of such tender age as to justify the state in specially protecting him.

The Pennsylvania statute prohibiting unnaturalized foreign born residents from hunting wild birds and game and forbidding them to own a shotgun or rifle will be attacked by Joseph Patone, an Italian.

histories is the exhibit prepared by the Mary West Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy. Here are shown dresses as much as eighty-five years old, guns and relics to which are attached history and romance, battle-scarred flags and much prized paintings of Confederate scenes and heroes.

To the housewife who is interested in the saving of footprints and labor the exhibit prepared by a body of women of the city will be of interest. In this space is presented what is termed by those in charge as "labor-saving devices." These necessities of the household have been assembled to show how the housewife may under modern conditions save many steps in her housework that her grandmother was compelled to make. The women who assembled this exhibit intended to attract the merchants in the effort and borrowed from various places over the city such utensils as in their mind might contain a suggestion to the housewife as labor-savers.

Relics, potpourri, picked up in various parts of the globe and assembled in one exhibit, form a feature for an hour's entertainment and instruction, as arranged in a booth at the main building. Among the lot are curios 100 years old. These are labeled and are worth a study.

Sacred Heart Academy Exhibit.

The Academy of the Sacred Heart has assembled an exhibit which probably surpasses from point of excellence and variety any that is shown of the same kind. In this is drawn work, paintings, etc., which hold the attention and are educational and interesting.

A lemon tree, laden with growing fruit, raised by Wm. Reese, forms a green spot in the exhibition hall which proves of interest to many.

In one corner of the upstairs is an exhibition of photos by Gildersleeve. Here are shown some remarkable photographs as assembled from various places.

Some of the Displays.

Among other exhibitors are Herrick Hardware company, where the latest in shelf hardware is shown; W. H. Cockcroft & Co., where fancy groceries are displayed; Nash-Robinson & Co., an exhibit of fine wall paper, fancy fixings for the house, doors and other pretty trimmings for the home are shown; Coco-Cola booth, where the drink is passed around; M-B Ice Cream, where the children as well as grown-ups are permitted to sample this production; Waco Talking Machine company, where the music seems perpetual; Wehring & May, exhibits of painting and hardware; Dr. W. B. Georgia, optical goods, rest room and showing of the newest in his line. Here the visitor is presented with a "bubble machine," Hico Roller Mills, a showing of Hico-made flour; Clough & Warren Co., pianos; Importers' Coffee company, fine grade coffees; McLendon

The Texas Independent Telephone company has a booth, with an exchange connection with the city.

Cotton Palace Notes.

Ellery's band pleased the vast concourse at the afternoon and evening concert to such an extent that it was necessary to respond to several encores.

State President I. B. Warren of the freemen's association, accompanied by Mrs. Warren and I. B. Warren Jr. of Temple and Alfred Warren of Belton, were visitors to the Cotton Palace yesterday.

The Cotton Palace baby show will hold the boards this afternoon in the big coliseum, and judging from the interest manifest in Central Texas there will be specimens of fine babies from all sections. The babies will be accompanied each by only one grown person, as the crowds are so large that when more than one accompanies the entry it is nearly impossible to do the judging and attend to all the details incident to such a feature.

There are plenty of Woman's day postal cards on hand at the publicity department of the Cotton Palace at the Adams hotel, also at the principal stores of Waco, for free distribution to those who wish to send to out-of-town friends, notifying them of the great pageantry of that day and the other features planned.

The animal show on the Warpath is well worth the price of admission. There are performing lions, elephants, ponies and dogs and some daring trapeze work.

All railroads and the interurban did a fine business into Waco yesterday on the special excursions that were put on.

SOCIALIST EDITOR TO SPEAK.

Hickey, of the Rebel, Will Be the Orator of Socialists' Day.

T. A. Hickey, editor of the Rebel, the socialist organ of Texas, writes the board of directors of the Cotton Palace, Hallettsville, that he is delighted to know that the exposition has set aside Sunday, November 2, as Socialists' Day, and that he feels deeply honored by receiving an invitation to deliver an address on that day.

Special Rates to Renters.

Mr. Hickey enclosed a hand bill circulated by the San Antonio and Aransas Pass officials featuring Bohemian Day, November 6, and makes request that the Cotton Palace association endeavor to secure special rates to the Renters' Union, which meets in Waco on November 8 and 9. On November 10 the socialists of Texas will hold their state convention in this city.

EXHIBITS FOR FT. WORTH SHOW

Many of the Finest Stables in the Country Enter Horses—November 22-29.

Fort Worth, Nov. 2.—With many of the finest stables in the country already entered and many more anticipated, there is every indication that this year's exhibition will be the greatest and most brilliant affair in the history of the National Feeders and Breeders show, which commences here November 22 and lasts until the 29th.

Val Crane, the famous horseman who has not shown here for several years, has on hand this fall with an entirely new string of fine animals and vehicles. Crane's horses were the sensation of the recent Kansas City horse show, where he carried off many blue ribbons.

J. B. Keake & Son of Winchester, Ill., whose entry also won the blue ribbon at the Kansas City show in the $100 roadster class, will be at the Fort Worth show with a stable of fine stock.

Miss Loula Long's stable will again be a feature of the horse show and she has many new animals. Among them will be Kentucky Choice, the great five-gaited saddle horse for which she recently paid $7500, and My Major Dare, another five-gaited saddle horse for which she paid $10,000 a few months ago. These two prize saddle horses will be entered in the Horse Show Classic, which is a new feature of the stock show.

Ulrich Bros. of Kansas City, whose stable has won many blue ribbons recently in the roadster and saddle classes of western shows, will be showing at this year's exhibition.

Virgil P. Keel of Gainesville, whose entries were among the big features of the show last spring, will be on hand once more with an enlarged stable.

Among the other famous Texas exhibitors who are sending in their entries are J. H. Lachaudette, of J. H. Lachaudette, who will have both harness and saddle animals.

The management of the show received definite information last week from Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, and Fort Sill, Oklahoma, to the effect that many officers and ladies would attend and take part in the military jumping classes. A corps of competent judges has been secured to the ribbons on the blooded animals at this show.

Charles Berger Dead.

Temple, Nov. 2.—Charles Berger, a resident of Buckholtz, aged about 55 years, died at the Santa Fe hospital in this city Saturday night from injuries received early on that date by being struck by a Santa Fe passenger train near his home. The man was brought here on the afternoon passenger train, but lived only a few hours, his head being crushed and other injuries inflicted about the body. So far as known, the accident was not witnessed. Berger had lived at Buckholtz a good many years, was a German and was familiarly known as "Big Mark." The body was taken in charge by a local undertaker and prepared for interment.

W. G. Kingsbury Moves to Temple.

Temple, Nov. 2.—As a result of his recent acquisition by purchase of the historic new Martin hotel building in this city, Mayor W. G. Kingsbury of Morgan has arrived here to reside. He bought the hotel about six weeks ago and gave in part payment therefor a 6000-acre Boque county ranch.

The hotel is leased by H. L. Dalley who will continue its operation. It is the intention of Mr. Kingsbury later on to double the capacity of the building and the erection of a five-story fire-proof annex.

THIS MAN'S TROUBLE CAME IN HIS SLEEP

Popular Houston Telegraph Operator Discusses Plant Juice and Its Benefits.

William Clark, a well known telegrapher, living at 1407 Franklin avenue, Houston, Texas, talked as follows:

"My trouble was catarrh and when I took a catarrh sufferer I feel like stopping him and telling him what Plant Juice did for me. From catarrh in the head my case advanced to catarrh in the stomach and bowels. I did not realize that the hawking and spitting I did when awake could not continue when I was asleep and that the poisonous matter would pass into the stomach. My bowels and stomach got so bad that I thought I must have blood poisoning. I took the strongest kinds of mineral remedies and got no better; in fact, I was getting steadily worse. I read of the cures Plant Juice was making and started taking it and it was a case of improvement from the start; it has gone to the diseased parts and by its wonderful powers healed them. My stomach and bowels are surely in fine condition and I feel very glad to recommend Plant Juice to all catarrhal sufferers."

Plant Juice has established a firm hold on the people of Texas and is revitalizing and restoring thousands of health and happiness. For sale at the Old Corner Drug Store.

vention of some kind or another. Such officials as were asked tonight if they would authorize denial that the United States might use drastic measures in case Huerta refused to yield said they did not care to say anything at all under the present circumstances.

Seven Warships at Vera Cruz.

Secretary Daniels of the navy department, when asked concerning the four American ships on the east coast of Mexico for whose relief other ships are en route from Hampton Roads, declared that while transfer ultimately was intended, the ships at Vera Cruz had been notified not to leave until ordered. He declared the navy department had not yet decided when it would order the ships to return, but that for the present, seven American warships would be kept in and around Vera Cruz.

Though it had been generally supposed the Huerta government had made objection to the presence of the American vessels beyond October 26, the date on which official permission for them to stay expired, it was learned today that no intimation has been conveyed at any time to the United States through official channels against the presence of the ships. Though there have been published statements from General Huerta along this line, no formal objection has been recorded.

That the forthcoming week will produce tangible developments in the diplomatic side of the situation is confidently expected. President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and his advisers are constantly occupied with the numerous phases of the situation and are keeping in close touch with the dispatches from Mexico. It is believed here that Huerta's proclamation as to the result of the election of October 26 will be made tomorrow or shortly thereafter.

POLICEMAN KILLS A WOMAN

Anti-American Feeling in Los Angeles Results in Shooting of Adolfo Moreno.

Los Angeles, Nov. 2.—As an indirect result of what was said by the police to be bitter anti-American feeling among the thousands of Mexicans in Los Angeles, Adolfo Moreno, a Mexican, was shot and killed here today by Albert C. Staples, a policeman, who had been shot at by Moreno and four companions.

The officer was walking his beat in the Mexican quarter when he saw Moreno and four other men, all apparently intoxicated, crossing the street toward him. Suddenly one of the quintet fired at Staples. The officer drew his revolver and shot Moreno through the body. He then arrested J. Cortez, one of Moreno's companions, but the other three fled.

A squad of officers later went through the Mexican quarters and took twenty Mexicans to the city jail, where they were searched for weapons.

According to the police hundreds of Mexicans for months have made it a practice to congregate Sunday afternoons and nights at the plaza. There speeches have been made in Spanish urging attacks on the police while pamphlets bearing incendiary promptings have been circulated freely, the officers say.

Americans Imprisoned.

Nogales, Sonora, Nov. 2.—Dr. R. F. A. Williams, formerly of Los Angeles has been imprisoned by General Ojeda, federal commander at Guaymas, according to information received today by American Consul Simplich. Dr. Williams, who had been practicing at Hermosillo, the constitutional capital, went to Guaymas several days ago against the advice of friends.

Calero Leaves Mexico.

Vera Cruz, Nov. 2.—Manuel Calero, candidate of the liberal party in the recent presidential elections, was a passenger on the steamer Corcovado for Havana today. Senator Calero will proceed to Washington. He was closely watched by detectives until the departure of the steamer.

WOUNDED NEGRO IS ARRESTED

Dixon Charged With Aggravated Assault on Fuller Williamson, Manager of Horne Farm.

Jim Dixon, negro, was shot and slightly wounded Saturday night, when he attempted to use a shotgun. A load of bird shot from another gun struck the negro about the face and upper part of the body.

The shooting occurred on the Horne farm, eight miles south of Waco. Dixon is said to have used insulting remarks to Fuller Williamson, manager of the farm, after Mr. Williamson had reprimanded him for driving a horse and buggy.

His Injury Slight.

The negro left and later returned with a shotgun. The shooting then occurred. The man is only slightly wounded.

Dixon was arrested on a charge of aggravated assault and disturbing the peace. Williamson was held blameless for his part in the affair.

Deputy Sheriffs Joe Roberts and Lee Jenkins arrested Dixon.

Three Fractures of Skull.

Lawrence Massey, 23.—Three fractures of the skull, the result of a football game, were found on Wm. McCartney, a 15-year-old newsboy, at the general hospital today. Physicians said he apparently had been kicked on the head by a player.

The boy played on a school team yesterday. In the third period he was found injured at the bottom of a scrimmage pile, but finished the game and afterwards was on "the street" over the incident.

He collapsed. He is not expected to recover.

Belton Man's Relatives Safe.

Belton, Nov. 2.—Col. R. L. Bennett of this city today in receipt of a cablegram that came through New York City from Monterey, Mexico, stating that his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jones, are safe in the last named city and not in danger of molestation or injury. Considerable uneasiness has been felt owing to inability to get into communication with the travelers and it was feared that some harm had been visited upon them.

BYE-ELECTION IN ENGLAND

Five Vacant Seats for House of Commons—Government Anxious—On Defensive in Four.

London, Nov. 2.—The United Kingdom is in the throes of a miniature bye-election. There are five vacant seats for the house of commons, four of them caused by recent judicial appointments and consequent changes in the cabinet. The government is quite naturally a little anxious, for in four of the five seats the opposition is strong.

The unionists, too, are making determined fights in every constituency, and are aided in some by the nomination of labor and socialist candidates, who always draw votes from the liberals.

The greatest interest centers in the contest for Reading, the seat which Sir Rufus Isaacs gave up to take the lord chief justiceship, and the unionists have the best chance of making a break in the government defenses. Sir Rufus always held his seat by narrow margins. Captain Leslie Wilson, who fought him at the last election, is against the unionist candidate.

George Peabody Gooch, the liberal candidate, a relative of the late Geo. Peabody, the American millionaire, is a stranger to Reading, having entered the constituency only on the eve of the contest and, besides, the socialists are opposing him.

Reading One-firm Town.

Reading is largely a one-firm town. Most of the firm's members are unionists, but its head, the late Sir George Palmer, was a liberal and the votes and influence of the firm were about evenly divided between the two parties. Sir George Palmer died a few weeks ago and the whole influence of the firm now will be for the unionist candidate.

The other election in an English constituency, the Kelghley division of Yorkshire, where Stanley O. Buckmaster has to seek re-election on his appointment as solicitor-general, does not give the government so much concern. Mr. Buckmaster was returned a year ago at a bye-election, receiving 852 votes over the unionist candidate in a three-cornered fight in which the third candidate, a labor man, received over 3,000 votes. This time it is not expected there will be any official labor candidate. The two Scottish elections will be fought largely on Scottish issues and in both cases the liberals are pretty certain of success. Robert Munroe, on account of

LIBERALS VICTORIOUS IN ITALY

Second Ballot in General Elections Show Little Change—Riots in Bologna.

Rome, Nov. 2.—The second ballot in the general elections was taken today in about one hundred constituencies and the returns indicate that the various parties will not be materially changed from the figures given out officially last week when the liberals, or ministerialists, elected 240 members, thereby winning a sweeping victory.

The socialists made the greatest gains today, having twenty out of their candidates returned, though these were divided among the different groups. Others elected were: Liberals, 50; Constitutional opposition, 6; radicals, 10; republicans, 2; Catholics, 4.

The results in Rome were considered very significant, two nationalists being elected over a socialist and the radical, Prince Teano. Both of the latter were supported by the municipal "block" composed of radicals, republicans and socialists headed by Mayor Nathan, who made a personal canvass in their behalf.

A mob attacked the offices of Messagero, the organ of the Bloc, smashing the windows and assaulting the staff, one of whom was injured.

The second ballots were characterized by greater excitement than the first on Sunday last. Suffragettes participated enthusiastically, rushing about in caps and motors, distributing pamphlets and urging their followers to vote for candidates favoring women suffrage. Several violent scenes occurred and in more than one the socialist candidate, Labriola, was shot at during the balloting at Naples, but was not injured.

Galveston People Condemn Charges Against Belles

Galveston, Nov. 2.—Catholics, Jews and Protestants of Galveston, in mass meeting tonight, condemned as "barbaric accusation and medieval insult" the charge of the prosecution in the Belles trial at Kiev, Russia, that Belles murdered Andrew Yushinsky, a Christian boy, in March, 1911, to obtain his blood for ritualistic purposes. Resolutions adopted at the meeting are to be forwarded to Secretary of State Bryan for presentation through diplomatic channels to the court of Russia.

Among the speakers condemning the "blood ritual" allegation were Rabbi Henry Cohen, congregation Tl Nal Israel, Galveston; Very Rev. Father J. M. Kirwin, president of St. Mary's seminary, La Porte; Judge Robert G. Street, Galveston, and Edward F. Harris, an attorney.

Temple Receipts Short.

Temple, Nov. 1.—Cotton receipts in Temple are far short this season of what they were last year at the same time, the receipts for 1913 to November being 11,500 bales, as compared with 15,000 bales for 1912, the actual shrinkage being 2544 bales. Local receipts Saturday were 175 bales, which brought from 18 to 19c. A significant fact connected with late receipts is that comparatively little is early picking, showing that the early cotton is nearly all disposed of. There is some being held in ware houses here for better prices, caused by the recent slump in prices, but the quantity is not very large.

TEMPTING BAIT FOR BIG FISH.

(Philadelphia Ledger.)

To catch a big fish you must use a tempting bait. An advertisement which cost an automobile manufacturer $27,000 for one insertion in a Philadelphia weekly publication may appear enormous to those unfamiliar with the big fish that can be landed when the proper bait is put upon the hook.

And that $27,000 bait supply caught a whale—over $1,000,000 worth of new business in a few weeks. That is the statement of the automobile company which performed the successful fishing stunt.

When you behold the monster which was brought in, the expensive bait looks cheap and inexpensive, doesn't it? This advertising proposition carries a first-rate moral: You can't win something big or worth while unless you make a big and worth-while effort.

In Woman's Sphere

BOTH PHONES 1908.

KATE FRIEND, Editor

In Mrs. David Franklin Houston, the wife of the secretary of agriculture, modern dances and modern fashions have found a defender and champion. In the tango she recognizes much of the minut of years ago; the one-step she finds essentially pretty, while the Boston-well, it is just the prettiest thing that Mrs. Houston has ever seen. The dances, she maintains, must not be held responsible for the manner in which they are performed by some persons who indulge in them. Furthermore, Mrs. Houston is confident that the world is growing better. The loud and flaunting things that are flaunted in one's face to prove the world is on the road to perdition, she says, are but the "deplorable instances" that are sensational and hysterical.

Mrs. Houston is a Texas woman. As Helen Beall she was a girl in Austin in 1885 to the college student who has since become a cabinet officer. Dr. Houston was dean of the faculty of the University of Texas, president of the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Texas and then president of the State university. Mrs. Houston is very popular in this state.

Devoled Wife and Mother.

To prove her point she contrasts the fashions of today with those of the past. Women are today, Mrs. Houston contends, in defending the slit skirt she cites the fact that it is merely a recurrence to styles of the empire days. But Mrs. Houston has serious thoughts and topics to discuss.

She is a devoted mother and her domestic interests, together with her general knowledge of matters of moment and her lively interest in the concerns of the day, combine to make her one of the most popular and accomplished women in the official society of the capital. The Houston baby, born this year, is the only baby in any cabinet family. And Mrs. Houston is the second wife of a secretary of agriculture to preside over that department head's household in the history of the office.

"There is no joy like that of a round, rosy baby in the household," said Mrs. Houston, laughing at the sounds of insistent demands from the nursery that dropped to the floor below with beautiful insolence, in an interview with the Washington Post.

"And my children are so well and strong that they are an uninterrupted delight. Practically I have two babies, because my daughter, Helen, is not quite 3 years old, but David Franklin Jr. is very much of a grown-up—he is 14 years old, and attends the Western high school, which he enjoys tremendously."

Mrs. Houston possesses the unique charm of knowing such a lot about so many things without being aggressive, and—charm of all charms!—she doesn't dream but that all other people know the same things. She talks with equal ease about what is best for babies, and the most vexing problem of sociology; she knows the ways and highways of America, and the galleries and cathedrals of Europe; she is familiar with the social and historical life of the capitals of Europe, and loves the keen, fresh air of the moors of Scotland.

"I never knew," she said, "until last summer that anything could be so beautiful as Marthas Vineyard. We took over an estate belonging to an aunt of mine, and there the children and I spent the summer. It was so very beautiful—like the moors of Scotland, scraggy greens, little blue lakes—oh, it was very lovely."

"And, of course, you enjoyed the swimming?"

"It was simply splendid," said Mrs. Houston, "and I am very fond of swimming."

"World Growing Better," She Says.

"I am always so amused," she said, "when I hear about the good old times! I do not believe the world is growing worse—I am sure it is growing better every day. The loud and flaunting things that are flaunted in our faces to prove the world is on the broad road to perdition are but the deplorable instances that are sensational and hysterical; they do not for a moment interfere with the steady, faithful current of progress that flows toward everything more beautiful, better, and more artistic."

"I have danced all my life," she said, "and I can remember when the waltz was most severely criticized, and the beautiful, rhythmic thing had to be discussed and analyzed as to whether it was best for the young person or not. If something pretty is abused by those who have no sense of values, by those who are not accustomed to the finer environments, or by those who do not understand the proper manners of ladies and gentlemen, the thing itself can hardly be held responsible."

"So I think the new dance, or the modern dance, as it is so often denounced, is really one of the most beautiful things I ever saw! The 'one-step' is essentially pretty, as it is danced by a party of well-bred young people, while the tango has in it much of the measure of the minuet, which years ago was considered eminently proper. Certainly no one with a sense of rhythm who recognizes harmony and beauty can find fault with the tango when it is correctly danced. Do you know, I really think the Boston dance is the prettiest thing I ever saw!"

Clothes Never So Pretty.

When the modern dance had been disposed of, the change of subject to modern fashion was logical and perfectly natural.

"Women's clothes were never so pretty as they are today, and never quite so sensible," said Mrs. Houston. "There is always the misuse and abuse of any prevailing fashion, that makes it the object of ridicule and a subject for the most grotesque cartoons. But, as is true of the dance, the fashion itself must not be held responsible for the abuse of those who would caricature any manner of garment. I am always amused when I hear about the modesty of women's clothes of the good old times." Now here is a picture of my grandmother."

Mrs. Houston took an exquisite miniature from the mantle. "You see," she said, "that was taken in a street and above reproach. Yet what a sensation it would create if our street costumes were fashioned after that model."

The ancestor wore a gown cut low in the neck, a style much in vogue in those days.

"Of course, she wore the popular 'tucker,'" Mrs. Houston said, "but that was nothing more nor less than this sort of thing"—she crossed her hands under her throat and brought them down to a point at her belt—"and it was ruffled and trimmed with lace. But then what would people say now if they saw that sort of a 'tucker' gown displayed in the shops when one goes to buy pins and needles, or in the market when one goes to search for food?"

"And, as to slit skirts, they are history, and history repeats itself. Really, you know, fashion is a recurrence of the century. Fashions revolve and we have only come back to the period of the empire, when skirts were slashed to the hip. It is not the fashion that people most condemn, it is the people that abuse that fashion, whether it be the slit skirt or the tango. So after all, it is a question of the moral standard that regulates dress and dances."

Waterworks for Holland.

Bell County Town Agitates Municipal Plant.

Holland, Tex., Nov. 2.—A municipal waterworks plant is being agitated for Holland and the matter is being investigated by those in authority. If the city does not embark in same it is likely that private capital will do so. W. B. Cox, who owns the unfinished deep well started here some time ago, has awarded a contract for cleaning same out which it will be sunk deeper in an effort to strike the artesian sands. If water is found as confidently anticipated, the well will be used as the source of supply for the new waterworks plant of which Holland stands badly in need at the present time.

HOLINESS HIS THEME

REV. W. W. MELTON'S INTERESTING DISCOURSE ON THE PERFECT LIFE.

Man Cannot Serve His Savior Part of the Time and Give Rest of His Life to Satan.

Rev. W. W. Melton preached the second of the sermons of his series on "Holiness" to a large congregation at Seventh and James Street Baptist church yesterday. He said in part:

"On last Sunday we studied the question of holiness from the standpoint of its original meaning and the evolution of the word. Finding that of the near five hundred times the word is used in the Old Testament, about four hundred of them were applied to inanimate things, and almost every time it was applied to people it meant their dedication to a sacred use; even the words so often used, 'Be ye holy for I am holy' was an exhortation to a strict observance of laws and rules regulating the temporal lives of the chosen people, and that who ever violated one of those laws was unholy, though it be but touching of a dead body, or a serpent. But the things that rendered the body unholy were types of sin, these together with the ceremonial cleansing of the tabernacle were but pictures of the real and true holiness that was to be made manifest in Jesus Christ. And in the middle of the centuries the Psalmist declared that the God of heaven did not want such pictures but wanted the things they pictured and the complete break came in the day of Christ and those ceremonies and pictures and types were driven from the scene, and the cattle and birds and beast were driven to the field, never again to return to the manger, to be offered for the sins of men; and the priests were disrobed, and all men stood alike before God to worship Him in spirit and in truth; and that holiness was no longer ceremonial, but that each of us should have the will of God as it was revealed in His word."

Expressed in Two-Fold Way.

"The New Testament conception of the perfect life is in conformity to the pattern found in the life of Jesus Christ, and was expressed in a two-fold way, negatively, that no wrong should be done in the entire range of moral life, from the most insignificant thought to the most daring deed; and positively, that the life should be filled with utility and service, in opposition to all wrong and on the alert to serve humanity, and worship God. And the ground for such an exhortation was three-fold: first, that God Himself was holy, and had a right to make such an exhortation, and that no man could see God without it, that presents a strong plea for God, who hopes to see God. The second was that heaven was holy and no unclean thing could enter there, and no man could enter it without holiness, this, likewise, should be a strong appeal to those who desire to enter heaven, to the best possible life. The third ground for such an exhortation was in the fact that to observe it meant the greatest possible good to men in the temporal life, it has never entered into the mind of man that he could do such a thing. The third ground for such an exhortation was in the fact that to observe it meant the greatest possible good to men in the temporal life, it has never entered into the mind of man that he could do such a thing."

Beyond the Theory.

"I want us to look beyond the mere theory of it for a brief moment. There are multitudes that will admit that the Bible teaches the doctrine of holiness, but they seem to doubt that God expects us to try to observe it. I want to ask a simple question. Does God expect that any man should live the life He outlines in the Bible? To answer this I must ask another question. When He saved us was it His will that we should serve Him part of the time and Satan part of the time? Let me say in the beginning that I do not pose as a holiness, the regret of my life is that I am not more holy than I am; but I ask that any candid man answer my question, was it the will of God that those whom He redeemed should serve Him part of the time and Satan part of the time? No one would offer any other answer than that God expected a whole-hearted surrender of the individual to the cause of right and that not for one moment was He expected to ask a leave of absence from the ranks of righteousness to Notice to Subscribers.

Delivery routes in the city of Waco are in the hands of Independent Carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscription accounts are due them, not the Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. This margin of profit is such that they can not afford to extend credit except month by month. They are not required, and are advised against, delivering the paper to anyone who does not pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hardworking young men and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

The Morning News should be delivered throughout the City of Waco by 6:50 A. M. and failing to receive the paper at this time will confer a favor by phoning the circulation department, both phones 1132, and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

TO THE CITY COMMISSION.

The Waco News is making a fight on auto speeding in that city. The News also wants the child and irresponsible driver prohibited from running cars in the city. This is a good idea. SENSE NEEDED IN ROAD BUILDING.

Noting that the people of the United States are spending close to $1,000,000 a day for improvement of the public highways, and nearly 100,000 men are employed one way or another in constructing or supervising the roads, Washington Post asks is it "surprising to learn that a large percentage of the money is wasted?" Whenever great sums of money are expended there is likely to be considerable waste, unless great care is exercised, it points out.

But in the construction of roads the waste has been due more to ignorance than to carelessness or graft, and Mr. Logan Waller Page, director of the office of public roads, has given the phrase "government service" new meaning by engaging in a movement to teach scientific road construction, comments the Post.

In order to aid the farmers who want to build their own roads and to assist various communities that desire to improve the roads nearby, the office of public roads has employed experts to test all materials and study their usefulness on roads subjected to certain traffic conditions. The bureau is now acting in an advisory capacity to many states and counties, giving a most practical form of national aid.

It has been found that some communities have been spending thousands of dollars on macadamized roads when cheaper dirt roads would do just as well; that some communities have been spending great sums to bring materials from other states when they have materials just as good near at hand; and, finally, that little attention has been paid to maintenance.

"Different traffic conditions require different kinds of roads. What would be the most economical and lasting kind of road in one county might not do at all in another. The farmers and state authorities can now get the information they need from the office of public roads, which has made service tests on the roads themselves, and laboratory tests as well. At Chevy Chase, Md., a model road has been built in sections made of different materials, while in the laboratory of the road office tests are constantly being made with scientific accuracy. Federal aid in road construction could take no higher or more sensible form than that given to it by Director Page."

Waw!
A diplomat is a person who doesn't accept an ambassadorial post under Sec. Bryan.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Anyway, that's not as harsh as the deal of press opinion that would have it that a diplomat is a person whom Sec. Bryan would not be apt to recommend for an ambassadorial post.

If the Carnegie peace commission's report does nothing else worthwhile, it will at least have the much-to-be-desired result of putting an end to the silly laudation heaped on the Italian allies on the false score that they were prosecuting a "Christian" warfare.

The Worth of the Cotton Palace and Its Due

We welcomed the fourth Texas Cotton Palace Saturday with the praise that each of these Waco expositions has done its work thoroughly.

This was also the praise of the governor of Texas when he opened the gates of the Palace to the state, that night. Mr. Colquitt predicted the most successful celebration in the city's history, the greatest Cotton Palace. And that which was before him, and the thousands of people before him as he spoke, rendered his words less a prediction than a statement of fact and a tribute descriptive.

We did not mean that the Texas Cotton Palace merely had succeeded as an attractive, interesting array of exhibits of soil products, manufactures and merchandise; we did not mean that it had succeeded as a state or regional event for recreation and amusement, merely; nor yet did we mean that it had succeeded because it gathered in Waco thousands of visitors from over the state, annually, when we wrote that each celebration of the Texas Cotton Palace had done its work thoroughly.

Our meaning was quite the explanation supplied by Governor Colquitt when he spoke of the effect worked by the coming of the new Texas Cotton Palace, the effect on the spirit, on the fortunes and on the upbuilding of the city of Waco and its people. With the first success of the Palace in 1910, with the rearing of the Amicable, a new day dawned for the chief municipality of central Texas and a new spirit possessed its citizens; progress came, to remain and wax strong; business and civic enterprises were many times multiplied and enriched, community ambition and pride became the order of the new day.

Business organizations, those companies we often refer to as "boosters," the women's clubs, organized labor, have been factors that retained for Waco and nourished this spirit of progress since its advent three years ago. And the Cotton Palace association, officers, directors and stockholders, have gone confidently and proudly on their way making each year's exposition bigger, better and busier. The local press has watched the strengthening of this spirit with great gladness, helping whenever it could help, suggesting whenever it honestly was convinced of the need of advice, loyally co-operating always for the public good and the making of its city in any enterprise that would assure more people, more business, more comforts and more community progress.

Our praise, and the governor's, meant that the Texas Cotton Palace has stood for and achieved that which the great-souled McKinley in his martyr address that dedicated the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo twelve years ago, spoke of in his summary. Few better than William McKinley, a man of the people and near the people, in our time have gauged the significance of these great public events.

"Expositions," he said, "are the timekeepers of progress. They record the world's advancement. They stimulate the energy, enterprise and intellect of a people and quicken human genius. They go into the homes. They broaden and brighten the daily life of the people. They open vast storehouses of information to the student. Every exposition, great or small, has helped to some onward step."

So with the Texas Cotton Palace. In degree, it, too, contains in its exhibits evidences of the highest skill. Its scope is broadening. The beauty of its decking and arrangement brightens the lives of thousands of Texans, each year. It educates. It is distinctly and peculiarly an home exposition, telling of domestic achievements and pointing the way to domestic comforts.

And, above all else, the Texas Cotton Palace has done its work thoroughly because it has stimulated the energy, the enterprise and the intellect of the people of Waco and has quickened their genius infinitely. The governor's tribute was wholly well founded. The Cotton Palace is the corner stone of the new civic structure here.

This is the worth of the Cotton Palace. Its charm is wonderfully various and its beauties are innumerable. It is the creation of loyal, loving men and women on every directory, every committee and every Waco organization concerned in the preparation of its booths, the decoration of its halls, its grounds and coliseum, the arrangement of its exhibits. The lighting of its buildings, bridges and walks is harmoniously ordered. The Cotton Palace at night is a thing of beauty and a joy that lasts for days, if not an enduring joy. Some considerable acquaintance with horticultural exhibits in general expositions and special "flower shows" of the great flower markets of our own country, gives us to say advisedly that there could be a no more exquisite display anywhere than that for which many hundreds of Wacoans are grateful to Mr. Tom J. Wolfe and Miss Annie Wolfe—the furnishers and designers of the chrysanthemum show.

Nowhere has there been even an attempt to fashion a cotton modeling department comparable with that superintended by Mrs. J. B. Cooper—it is unique among the fairs of the world. Few had imagined it were possible to put the gold-making product of Texas to these uses; the exhibit is a revelation in every phase. For this, and for every department of artistic decoration and arrangement, are the women of Waco to be thanked; the women's share in the success of this fourth exposition is the greater share, we think—especially those women designated by Mrs. James W. Bass to the several committees and to design the booths of the "nationalities." Waco may be proud of the exposition it has to offer to persons of the highest order of intelligence, for its position would be creditable to any city.

So this is the worth of the Cotton Palace. But the Cotton Palace has its due, also. There are fourteen days and fourteen nights of the exhibits, of excellent music, and hearty, clean amusements yet to run. These must have principally the patriotic support of the people of Waco, of some 35 thousands of men, women and children, day after day if the Palace is to be the financial success it deserves to be and that Wacoans as a matter of pride should want it to be. Our home people must be counted on first of all, counted on to a far greater degree than the support of visitors from other Texas communities. It is an exposition too genuinely unique to be in danger of palling and stalling; each visit gives a new insight and prompts new appreciation of its beauty and ability to educate. There are new amusements constantly. Every person in any way connected with the management is giving the best of unselfish, zealous service to please his fellows.

Merchants along the streets that will be most traveled by visitors—the streets of the flag arches—should decorate more extensively, now. Many have not even displayed a Cotton Palace pennant or a knot of its colors. A suggestion going even to the length of calling on the residents of Waco to forego the use of pikes and season tickets on "Waco Day," tomorrow, and making this home day the occasion for replying the treasury of the Palace by paid admissions from everyone is by no means out of place. There must be continued patronage by the people of Waco. The Cotton Palace is as much their institution for support, as much their responsibility, as the departments of city government and the financing of public improvements.

The fourth Cotton Palace has begun auspiciously. Let it run its course with no diminution of enthusiasm and no decrease in attendance. Let those who have labored long and well for the success of this exposition be rewarded in the only way possible, let Waco be celebrated over the state in the best way possible—by the definite assurance of that success through loyal and due support on the part of all the city.

Money Fits Its Courage.
A runaway milk wagon was stopped by Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston last Saturday.—The News.

Perhaps it was one of those big wagons, a milk depot wagon, that is not unlike a wagon devoted to transporting a certain other form of liquid human food, and his honor thought—well, someone will be unkind enough to suggest that S. Adeline Fitzgerald didn't know it was a milk wagon he was stopping.

ELECTRICITY AND PLANTS.

New experiments in forcing plant growth by electric light were tried abroad recently, and the Electrical World reports that the experiments are a little unusual in that they were tried indoors in two exactly similar houses, one lighted naturally and the other having in addition to its natural lighting facilities an ordinary mercury arc lamp, which was placed in use about an hour before sunset and kept in service for approximately four and a half hours. The exposure and temperature of the two houses were alike, so that the results appear to have been strictly comparable.

It is reported that the seeds of ordinary vegetables germinated considerably earlier in the electrically lighted house than in the other. This is one of those extraordinary results which have sometimes turned up before in similar sorts of experimentation, but for which no rational explanation can be offered. It is highly probable at least that the seeds were buried and it is highly improbable that any light rays reached them. Certainly the mercury arc gives no radiation except a certain amount of heat radiation, which can penetrate earth even to a very small distance.

It is possible that in this case the heat radiation of the lamp, which is considerable, undoubtedly might produce at least a small effect on lightly buried seed. Certainly one cannot fairly ascribe this particular effect to the light received, of which the character is perfectly well known.

In the case of the growing plants the various flowering specimens could be directly affected by the light and are reported as actually showing considerable increase in growth and much freer flowering than the similar plants in the unlighted house. A similar result reported for a strawberry bed which showed an increase of crop of 25 per cent is equally understandable and quite in line with some previous experiments.

Perhaps one may hardly expect the process to be an economical one in ordinary agricultural operations, but it certainly might be well worth trying in floral culture where, on account of the ordinary effect of the seasons, a little additional forcing may lead to a materially better price for the product. The experiments ought to be carefully repeated at some of our agricultural experiment stations, so as to get, if possible, some quantitative results sufficient to settle the economics of the matter.

Odd, at Least.
To establish cheerfulness in the heart of a teacher dance the tango, the bunny hug and other modern dances.—Mr. William McKim, principal of Washington Irving High School, New York City.

Probably that's merely "Professor" (we are trying to get used to the curiosity of addressing public school teachers that-a-way) McAndrew's singular style of sarcasm. If we thought for the fraction of a second that it was a sincere suggestion or even an added attempt at advice, we would send a protest to the New York school board and a letter to the Ladies Home Journal.

"Swaying back and forth" made Miss Margaret Adamick the "most perfect" girl—and the blue ribbon for comment on this report goes to Washington Post, at our hands; its observation being that by the same token "Gene Foss ought to be the Apollo Belvedere of Massachusetts."

We are not yet alarmed at the reports that battle for home rule in Ireland may really become battle, since there has been no suggestion to call over the reserves now employed by the police departments of Chicago, New York and Boston.

What Upsets Him.
New York's majority campaign has progressed so far that Judge McCall has progressed his judicial calm and is acting quite like any other politician.—Boston Globe.

Tammany's candidate really ought to be distressed. He must see that it is not out of the question for the people to apply Tammany's prescription for getting rid of an undesirable in office. McCall as mayor might become a mayor "recalled."

His Cotton Palace address evidences that Governor Colquitt quite agrees with the late William McKinley as to the tremendous importance of expositions as community and state vivifiers.

District Attorney Whitman continues to make a showing as the only bright angel of the New York combat with the powers of political darkness.

Prince Albert of Monaco has not yet favored the American press with his views on the result of closing gambling houses.

What is it to be for Johnny Hennessy if Mitchel makes it? Office or another Sulzering by Tammany?

The Pankhurstian literature appears to be as unsavory as the Pankhurstian behavior.

And Mexico still leads the republics in the matter of a "restricted" ballot.

Waco and the Cotton Palace.
(Houston Post.)

The Waco Cotton Palace will be formally opened to the public today. Like the Texas State Fair, it is educational and has added attractions this year. It is in a splendid city, whose population is made up of as fine people as you will find anywhere. Waco is the commercial center of a large producing and trade territory and the people who inhabit that zone are energetic, enterprising and intelligent. With a territory of such magnificent resources to depend upon for trade, Waco is bound to grow steadily larger. It boasts a considerable manufacturing industry, and the tin bucket brigade is a powerful factor in the building of cities and, therefore, in establishing a market for the varied products of the soil. The opening day has been designated Press Day, and a host of members of the Texas press will be there to enjoy the occasion and the courtesies that will be so liberally showered upon them. The press is indispensable in the making of fairs and expositions a success. Its work is patriotic and unselfish. It is firmly committed to the upbuilding of Texas, and it recognizes that fairs, expositions and cotton palaces alike are great contributing factors to that end. Attend the Cotton Palace at Waco, and when it is over come to Houston and see the big show this city is making ready for you. All railroads lead into Houston; unimproved road dirt roads

MAN SHOOT'S FOUR YOUTHS

When Thrown From Bicycle Pulls His Pistol and Opens Fire—Two Seriously Wounded.

Evansville, Ill., Nov. 2.—An unknown man tonight shot four young men who threatened him from his bicycle, and two of them are expected to die. According to August Steinko, the only member of the party who was not wounded, one of his friends shoved the rear wheel of the bicycle and the rider had a bad fall. Getting the pistol, the cyclist drew a revolver and began firing. Frank Dubrowski and Henry Endler were shot in the abdomen and may not recover. The others injured were shot in the legs.

Lieut. Col. Brewerton Dead.
Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 2.—Lieutenant Colonel Henry F. Brewerton, U. S. A., a veteran of the civil war, died today at his home here. He was born in 1852 with rank of major and subsequent by an act of congress was advanced to the rank of lieutenant colonel. Colonel Brewerton who was 75 years old was a member of the Royal Legion and was one of the founders of the military service institute. He is survived by a widow and three children.

Fruit Imported Through Galveston.
Galveston, Nov. 2.—The chartering of the Norwegian steamship "Atlantis" by the Gulfcoast Fruit and Steamship company is indicative of the growth of the fruit importing trade through Galveston. The Gulfcoast Fruit and Steamship company was organized and entered into the trade between Galveston and Tampico, Vera Cruz and Puerto Mexico about one year ago. It began operations with two plantations, one located at Filisola and the other at Tabaquena, and one chartered steamship which made semi-monthly trips from Galveston to the Mexican ports. It has been found that business exceeded even the expectations of the company, and the chartering of the "Atlantis" became a necessity in caring for the trade.

Mrs. Wilson for Civic Welfare.
Washington, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has accepted the position of honorary vice chairman of the women's department of the National Civic Federation, whose chief work in the District of Columbia has been to improve the conditions under which government employees work. In associating herself with this work, Mrs. Wilson informed Miss Maurice Welton, national chairman of the women's department of the organization, that she was acting not as the president's wife, but as a woman whose heart was in the social welfare movement.

Princeton Coaches Confident.
Princeton, Nov. 2.—The make up of Princeton's football team will not be changed this week with the exception of Phillips, who will return to left tackle. The coaches feel that the victory over Holy Cross has given the team justification for reasonable confidence. The squad, which came through Saturday's game in good shape, is due for two hard scrimmages tomorrow and Tuesday, the coaches said, with possibly a third one on Wednesday, and then will rest until after the Harvard game.

Italy and Austria Had Orders.
Rome, Nov. 2.—It was learned today that Italy and Austria acted according to instructions from the powers in proceeding a collective note to Greece complaining that the delimitation of Albania by the international commission is being hampered by the attitude of the population under Greek excitement.

Greco was presented at Athens yesterday. Greece is charged, like Italy, with interfering in all ways with the labor of the commission and in notifying the Greek government that they have instructed their representatives on the commission to regard as Albanian all villages where opposition is encountered, Italy and Austria have the support of the other powers.

BELESS WINS ON ONE POINT

Prosecution Prevented From Having Read Minutes of Previous Cases of "Ritual Murder."

Kiev, Nov. 2.—Counsel for the defense in the trial of Mendel Beiliss, charged with murdering the Christian boy, Andrew Yushinsky, have succeeded in preventing the prosecution from having read the minutes of previous cases dealing with alleged "ritual murder." The medical testimony having been concluded, the sitting today began with the hearing of the medical witnesses, among whom only one upholds the views of the prosecution, namely the priest, Father Pranates, whose evidence has already to a great extent been repudiated by the Vatican authorities. Among other experts to be heard is Prof. Kokovskoff, a relative of the Russian premier. A long list of abstruse questions concerning "ritual murder" were put to theological experts, neither questions nor answers apparently being comprehensible to the jury, which is composed of peasants and small shop keepers. The list included such questions as: "At the instance of the prosecution, long extracts were read from a book written by a Greek monk named Neophyte, a converted Jewish rabbi. According to this book, 'Christian blood is in constant demand by Jews all over the world for various uses on all the ceremonious occasions of life.'"

While Father Pranates was testifying he mentioned Christ, whereupon the president of court declared that no evidence would be placed before the jury when court was sitting behind closed doors. Pranates contended that the extermination of the Christians was the main object of the existence of the talmudic law. At the instance of the prosecution, long extracts were read from a book written by a Greek monk named Neophyte, a converted Jewish rabbi. According to this book, "Christian blood is in constant demand by Jews all over the world for various uses on all the ceremonious occasions of life."

LOS ANGELES TO HAVE WATER

Floodgates of the Great Reservoir to Be Opened—Is Great Engineering Feat.

Los Angeles, Nov. 2.—For one day this week next Wednesday—this city expects to have most of its population transferred to the head of a valley, twenty-three miles from the city. The act of an eight-year job—the opening of the flood gates which will let into the San Fernando reservoir the snow waters gathered from the slopes of the Sierras and brought here 260 miles over desert and through mountains by the Los Angeles aqueduct.

There will be a two days' celebration, Wednesday at the reservoir, and Thursday at a park where a $50,000 fountain will be dedicated to commemorate what the people of this city refer to as one of the great engineering achievements of the world.

Conceived eight years ago, when the city then had a population of less than 200,000, was suffering a water famine, the plan of the aqueduct involved intricate engineering problems and questions of water rights, somewhere are now in the courts of Los Angeles. Although it has cost more than $25,000,000 its completion has brought to the city a water supply capable of furnishing approximately 250,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours.

The aqueduct taps Owens reservoir in Inyo county and leads it first into Haiwee reservoir, an artificial lake covering a valley seven miles long by one mile wide to a depth of sixty feet. From this reservoir, which lies at an altitude of more than half a mile, aqueduct flow is carried through open conduits across valleys and the great Mojave desert and in tunnels through mountains of the coast range.

Double Suicide Is Brought to Light

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 2.—A double suicide was brought to light today when the decomposed bodies of James F. Bly, an 18-year-old medical student of Philadelphia, and his 19-year-old bride were found in the ruins of a Northfield, N. J., hotel. The bodies were found in a room containing two empty chambers lying between them and a note signed by both convinced the police that the couple ended their lives as the result of a suicide pact.

The note, which was in the young man's handwriting, read: "Death is the easiest way out. Rose will kill herself first and I will follow."

Other letters found in Bly's clothing told of parental objection to their wedding, which friends say took place last August.

The couple had been missing since September 8. The youth's father is Albert J. Bly, a well-known railroad man of Altoona, Pa. His wife was the daughter of Mrs. M. E. Herring of this city.

EXPLOSION KILLS SIX

EARLY MORNING TRAGEDY IN HARTFORD—FIVE-STORY BUILDING TOPPLES.

Crushes Adjoining Tenement House With Inmates—The Cause Is Unknown.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 2.—At least six persons are said to be dead as the result of an explosion in Loveland's five story brick warehouse in North Front street early this morning when the walls of the building toppled onto the roofs of two adjoining frame tenement houses.

The cause of the explosion has not yet been learned, but immediately following there was a fire which soon was extinguished.

The two story house occupied by John Hughes was almost buried under the brick and masonry. Six persons were known to have been in the house at the time and are believed to be dead.

Bender Hughes, aged 65, a stone cutter. Margaret Hughes, 45, his sister. Mrs. Lucy Doty, another sister, and her three children.

Two persons are in the Hartford hospital and two others in St. Francis hospital, supposed to be fatally injured.

The roof of a house occupied by a Syrian family also was crushed in and members of that family were rescued with difficulty by firemen. Firemen were kept at work in the ruins of the Hughes house this morning searching for bodies.

CONTINUE SULZER ATTACKS

Opponents Allow No Lull in Fight on Character—Say Indictment Threatens.

New York, Nov. 2.—Political enemies of William Sulzer, deposed governor, now are making a new offensive. A ticket for the state assembly allowed no lull to exist today in the campaign in this city of which Sulzer's effort to be returned to public office is an interesting feature. Sulzer, a nationally known, Edward E. McCall for Tammany, and John Purroy Mitchell, for the fusion ticket, marked time, except for one address by Mitchell to German-American citizens. But Sulzer was attacked and his indictment threatened in connection with certain testimony before the high court of impeachment that convicted him.

State Senator James D. McClelland said evidence would be placed before the district attorney of Albany county this week relating to the testimony of Duncan W. Peck, state superintendent of public works, before the impeachment body. Peck said under oath that Sulzer asked him to "forget" a certain campaign contribution and told him to "deny it" to investigators. Sulzer when informed of the threatened proceedings upbraid, said: "I wish they would take such action. It would then afford me an opportunity to go on the stand and testify to some matters that were not brought out in the impeachment proceedings."

Hearing, he said, that he was to be attacked on election day in the district where he is running for assemblyman, Sulzer tonight called upon Mayor Kline, Police Commissioner Waldo and the district attorney for protection. Gunmen, gangsters, repeaters and ballot stuffers intend to invade the district, according to reliable information Sulzer said he had received. "For the purpose of corrupting the elective franchise, terrorizing the voters and stuffing the ballot boxes to accomplish my defeat."

CHARGE TWO WITH SPEEDING.

One Motorist Arrested Late Saturday Night, Another Yesterday.

Two arrests for speeding were made by the police Saturday night and Sunday. In all the police arrested eighty-six persons from 11 o'clock Saturday until Sunday morning, when the night force went off duty. Thirty-four of these were released yesterday morning when police court was held.

Included in the arrest was a number of suspects who are being held awaiting investigation.

of the inquisitorial body were reticent when seen Sunday.

They would make no statements for publication; would make no denial of the facts purported to be printed in Sunday morning papers, on the one hand, they would not affirm. The facts come on good authority; in fact, it is known the confession was made to the grand jury and that Meade Barr in this confession involved the details of the case. What action the grand jury will take with regard to her case of course is not known. It is generally believed, however, that some action will be taken tomorrow, one way or the other, in regard to the matter.

County Attorney McCutcheon, while refusing to discuss with newspaper men the crude facts in the case, did state that "we have the right man."

"Do the physical facts in the case coincide with the confession made by Meade?" Mr. McCutcheon was asked. "I don't think there is any question but that we have the right man. I don't care to discuss the details of the case and will not. When the grand jury has acted and the case goes to trial you will get every feature of the case."

Habes corpus proceedings will likely be instituted by attorneys for the woman held in connection with the case tomorrow.

SUCCESSFUL ROOT AND HERB REMEDY

The study of roots and herbs, their character and power over disease, was what led Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., to produce for woman's ills the most successful remedy the world has ever known and while she passed to her reward some years ago, her work among suffering women is still carried on by trained assistants and many tons of roots and herbs are consumed annually in the manufacture of the now famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as originated by her.

WOMEN PLAY PART IN MEXICAN WARS

GUERRILLA METHOD OF FIGHT-ING HAS DEVELOPED MANY AMAZONS.

MARIA SANCHEZ GREAT LEADER

Wealthy Castilian Enlists in Place of Brother Who Is Shot—Other Heroines.

Women of Mexico are playing a prominent part in the turbulent warfare of the southern republic, whether as "soldaderas," foraging successfully for the grain and chicken and pigs of the countryside, by which the armies subsist, or as soldiers and leaders inspired with a fiery hate which has made them terrible foes.

This is true probably because the Mexican guerrilla warfare has touched the individuals and the homes more intimately than any other conflict of recent times. Nearly every woman in Northern Mexico has seen warfare, shorn of its theatricality because it entered the home and left death and want. And where husband, son, sweetheart or brother has fallen before the opposite side—but not in battle—the tragedy has been avenged by the woman left behind, who often as not took her place in the line of battle and used a gun to advantage.

Such was the case of Senora Maria Sanchez, a wealthy Castilian, who when her brother was shot by federal irregulars, begged to enlist in his place. She became a valued member of General Pablo Gonzalez's command, now based at the siege of Monterrey.

Interest in Assembly Fight.

New York, Nov. 2.—Interest in the election in New York Tuesday centers in the contest for the assembly. The present legislature is democratic in both branches and the senate holds over. A chief judge and an associate judge of the court of appeals are the only offices to be filled by balloting throughout the state. Mayors are to be elected in thirty-four cities and nine supreme court justices are to be chosen in various districts.

WONDERFUL ART IN MODELLING

WACON'S DEFT FINGERS HAVE FASHIONED MANY BEAUTI-FUL OBJECTS.

BRANCH OF ART CRADLED HERE

Modelers Exhibiting This Season Specimens of Their Handicraft That Excite Admiration.

The cotton modelling exhibit at the Cotton Palace is one feature of the exposition, at least, which is found nowhere else in the world. If for no other reason, the Cotton Palace should achieve a world-wide reputation for this.

The ladies of Waco who have developed the art of modelling the great southern product into artistic portrayals of life and nature, have added a new branch to the creative activities of the world, and have made a department of the Cotton Palace which is absolutely unique.

Expositions may come and go, but in this department the Waco Cotton Palace stands alone.

Exhibits Increased Two-Fold.
The exhibit this year not only doubles that of the 1912 Palace, but it shows throughout the result of more finished workmanship. The art for the first two years was in its infancy. Nothing of the kind had been attempted before. The fundamental principles having been established, the modelers are able now to labor with greater technical experience, and approach nearer to their artistic ideals.

Deceptive in Appearance.
Spectators before the exhibit yesterday were frequently incredulous when told that the effects were all obtained from cotton. Paintings, pen and ink sketches, bas-reliefs in colors, as well as the most substantial appearing statuary, at a distance of a few feet appear of solid and conventional materials; only on examination by close inspection, and sometimes by touching the material is the fact disclosed that the whole creation is of tinted cotton. Many of the pieces entered, are, of course, rough in their technique; but there are enough examples of finished craftsmanship to give the exhibit rank as a collection of artistic work.

The Children's Corner.
Although not so well finished as the work of the adult department, the corner devoted to the children's effort is attractive, and of a higher order than might be expected from the youthful artists. The public school classes have been aroused to an interest, and pieces of various sections of the primary grades are deserving of special mention.

Beautiful Colonial Scene.
A new scene of colonial history is presented by the low fourth class Columbus street school. A wintry landscape, with a frozen stream and snow laden trees in the background for a party of Puritan worshippers, who are making their way to the log meeting house where the pastor stands waiting in the door, holding his prayer book. Indians lurk in the distance. This model is all of raw cotton and cotton batting, tinted.

The sixth grade of the Sanger school produced a well finished basket of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

At the North Pole.
The low fifth of Columbus street school entered an arctic explorer, establishing the Stars and Stripes at the north pole. He is represented as seated on a sled, which is being dragged by a team of Esquimaux dogs. This exhibit is entirely of raw cotton.

A small but delicately wrought piece, the work of Sanger avenue 6B class. It is a soaring eagle in relief, carefully tinted, and with excellent finish of detail.

One of Miss Allison's classes introduced a primitive dwelling of raw cotton.

The children entering the rest of the exhibits are not to be named until after the prizes are awarded.

Attracting Attention.
Pieces from among these worthy of mention are:

The McLennan county court house in correct proportions. An accurate model of the building, from the lawn to the statue of justice on the dome.

Ceres, the Grecian goddess of harvest time. Dress and stalks of wheat executed.

Dutch windmill, facing a pond of swimming ducks.

Small piano excellently finished in detail.

Snow covered cottage and yard. A good representation of a winter landscape.

The siege of the Alamo. An animated descriptive piece, Mexican soldiers swarming to the attack, and assailing the stronghold with scaling ladders. Artillery and other military details complete, and historically accurate.

Automobiles, street cars, and aeroplanes of various sizes and designs, are entered in considerable numbers, many of them showing the effects of close application. One of them is the work of a 9-year-old boy of Teague.

Another out-of-town piece is by Misses Joie and Eva Hood, of China Springs, being a colored map of Texas, emphasizing the central location of the Waco Cotton Palace. Near it is another large map of Texas, also showing the effects of careful work.

Evangeline and Mephisto are representations.

mented in large colored sculpture. Another life-sized model is a Polar bear, entirely of raw cotton.

Happy Home Scene.
A rose-covered bungalow presents a happy home scene, with a negro "mammy" in the doorway.

Pink and red roses make an effective bouquet for another exhibit.

Something of a cubist effect is obtained in the picture of "The Mill on the Floss," which is well rendered in colors.

Other models represent Plymouth dimes spinning wheels, Puritan cradles, skyscrapers, grandfathers' clocks, millinery displays, Texas flags, dogs, squirrels and all the other animals of a circus menagerie, some recognizable by sight, others by their tags.

In the adult exhibits, the various entries are of more careful workmanship, and in many cases of real value as art productions.

Some Handsome Portraits.
One of the largest and most elaborate of the portrait entries represents Harrison Fisher, surrounded by a circle of his most popular girl heads. This model was authorized by a special permit from the Cosmopolitan magazine and from Mr. Fisher himself, who sent his latest photograph for the local artist's assistance.

A relief painting shows a society belle posing by the side of her dog in a little attitude.

A life-sized relief of an Indian warrior presents one of the most perfect examples of care in detail. Even the tiny cotton jewelry which adorns the warrior's neck is a perfect imitation of the redskin's work.

A sculptured lion is an example of what can be done with cotton when it is hardened by mixture with alabaster.

One of the entries which attracted most favorable comment is a large piece made entirely of raw cotton, entitled "The Story Hour," a mother reading to a child in her lap.

"Night Before Christmas."
A large and complicated design in colors presents Saint Nicholas pausing before the stockings of a Christmas Eve.

A miniature pair of dancers in the latest rag step, apparently, gives one of the best examples of well-portrayed action.

Busts of George and Martha Washington are easily recognized.

A sliced watermelon, in the natural colors, makes one long for the quick return of the days when the real article is in season.

"The Mikado's Laundry Bag" has a facing of a picturesque Japanese lady, with border decorations of gilt cotton burls.

Urn containing fresh-looking white chrysanthemums shows delicate handwork, in addition to using every product of the cotton plant—meal, seed, burl, boll and raw cotton.

Texas Steer's Head.
A large relief of a Texas steer's head is another design that presents all the products.

A painting shows a highly colored scene in a cotton field, with a negro woman picking in the foreground.

Another good picture shows a girl standing by the side of a woodland stream.

One of the best miniature statues is that of a woman in white, holding out a red rose.

An extensive model of a bungalow is completely furnished with furniture, the porch pillars being of cotton seed hulls, the rest of batting and raw cotton.

The largest and most intricate feature of this department is the "Lovers' Leap" scene. A bronzed warrior is on the lookout from the cliff above his wigwam, whence his squaw is attending the kettle on the campfire.

One of the smaller pieces that attracted notice is a painting of a girl talking to her parrot.

A basket of flowers is a true imitation of floral beauty.

In a picture of a horse's head, some fine points are brought out, especially in the flowing effect of the mane.

Two girls' heads are among the portraits, one of them a good sample of the poster designs.

Farm Yard Reproduced.
Two models are millinery creations. Among the smaller designs are a furnished bed room, and a farm house, with loaded wagon in the yard, a well and a negro family.

Mutt and Jeff are sculptured in colored forms, bigger than life. Near them is another group from the realms of the comic supplement, "The Newly-Weds," better known as "Lovey-Dovey" and "Snooky-ookums."

The sole example of pen and ink work is an idealistic sketch, entitled, "What Will the Boy Become?"

A framed relief of a bouquet of chrysanthemums is probably the most perfect representation of flower imitation ever seen at the Cotton Palace.

Another relief shows a basket of fruit, perhaps as well executed as the flower piece.

Artistic Marine Scene.
One of the most picturesque features is an entry from Galveston, a marine scene in which large models of the "Ima Hock" and the "Aidan" are plunging their way through turbulent waters.

A relief portrait of Lee is recognized without difficulty.

Other entries worth mention in this

DALLAS FAIR COMES TO END

Exposition Great Success, but Unfavorable Weather Prevents Record Attendance.

Dallas, Nov. 2.—The Texas State Fair is over. The 1913 convention and exposition closed its gates Sunday night. The attendance for the year was below par. The weather has been inclement for most of the time. The exposition was one of the greatest in history and but for the unfavorable weather during the past nine days there would have probably been a record-breaking attendance.

The exhibits and attractions in all departments were interesting, educational, and in some instances remarkable. The exposition has been especially educational. Special days have been a success, but the general attendance was not what was expected and what was hoped for by the State Fair management. The total attendance for the sixteen days will not be known for a few days. It will be near the million mark.

Sunday, the closing day, was Labor Day, and thousands of these representatives poured into the grounds. It was a record for the fair, after which the attractions and exhibits remained in place for Sunday and the closing day was equally as interesting as any other of the State Fair days.

"Considering the weather we are more than pleased with this year's exposition," declared President J. J. Eckford. "We had hoped for a record-breaking attendance and I believe if weather conditions had been more ideal our desires would have been fulfilled."

FIRST HALF OF WEEK CLEAR

Clear Skies Promised by Weather Bu-

Extremes.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Clear skies and moderate temperatures are promised by the weather bureau for practically the entire country for the next few days.

"With the exception of a little rain and snow early in the week over the extreme northwest and the middle and southern districts from the Rocky mountains westward," said the weekly bulletin tonight, "generally fair weather will prevail over the country until the middle of the week, when another disturbance will appear over the far northwest, bringing with it some rain and snow that probably will extend eastward over the Missouri and upper Mississippi valley and the greater portion of the lake region by the end of the week, mostly as rain.

"In the Atlantic and Gulf states, the Ohio valley and the southwest fair weather will continue and fair weather also is indicated in the northwest and extreme west after the middle of the week.

"Temperatures will rise early in the week over the central and the interior eastern portions of the country and will fall somewhat in the middle of the week, but unusual extremes of temperatures are not indicated at present for any portion of the country."

Mexican Killed by Auto.

Dallas, Nov. 2.—Felipe Ponce Mandian, aged 45 years, 2518 Main street, died at the Emergency hospital last night as a result of injuries received when an automobile driven by M. A. Stewart knocked him down at the intersection of Main and Crowder streets at 10:45 o'clock. The city ambulance, on another call, happened to be passing when the accident occurred and stopped to hurry with the injured
Mexican to the Emergency hospital.
Mr. Stewart, who followed the ambulance to the hospital, said the Mexican staggered in front of his car and that he could not avoid striking him. The body was taken in charge by the Hendinger-Brewer Undertaking company.

BIG GAMES WILL START THIS WEEK

EASTERN CHAMPIONSHIP RACE
IN FOOTBALL BEGINS SATURDAY.

GOLFERS STILL TALK QUIMET

Wonderful Feet Is Followed by Erratic Play—Field Dogs Are Being Tried.

New York, Nov. 2.—The opening game of the so-called eastern football championship series will be played at Princeton on Saturday, when the teams of Harvard and Princeton will meet in their annual combat.

This will be the seventeenth contest between the teams of the two institutions since 1877, when the Tigers and Crimson first mingled on the football field. There have been a number of breaks in the series between Princeton and Harvard, and at present the score stands Princeton 13 victories, 4 defeats. Opening with two games in 1877, the colleges played annual games until 1883. In 1895 the series was renewed and played for two years, and was then abandoned until the autumn of 1911. Since then the play has been continuous, so that next Saturday's game may be considered the third of the present cycle.

Judging by the form displayed by the two eleven which are to clash in the most important game of the east this week, Harvard should be a slight favorite, but Princeton point to the peculiar fact that the Crimsons have not defeated the Orange and Black on the Tigers' home field in many years. As a result a tradition has sprung up in Princeton that Harvard cannot win from Princeton at Princeton any more than it can defeat
Yale in the Cambridge stadium.

The Crimsons cohorts hope to shatter both these traditions this year, but should the Tigers win on Saturday, faith in the ability of Harvard to defeat Yale in the coming game at Cambridge will receive a severe setback.

So far as football pioneer activity and traditions are concerned, Princeton has a decided advantage over Harvard, for the Tigers were on the gridiron several years ahead of the Crimsons, and have made football history which needs no apology when compared with that of Harvard, which is carefully guarded in musty times at Cambridge.

Princeton football dates back to 1869, when, aided by Rutgers, the Tigers put on the first American intercollegiate football in the category of United States college sports.
For more than forty-four years, Princeton had played football each season and the total number of games run into surprising figures. Her record to date shows 147 games, of which 396 have been won, 15 lost and 12 tied. Harvard inaugurated football at Cambridge in 1874, and to date has played exactly the number of games as Princeton, but not with the same success. Of the 317 games, 291 have been won; 47 lost and 9 tied.

Quimet Still Discussed.

Despite the rather erratic play of Francis Quimet since the youthful Massachusetts golfer won the United States open championship by defeating both Ray and Vardon in the sensational open round at Brookline, the followers of the ancient and honorable game continue to discuss the remarkable feat from many angles. Owing to the exciting scenes attendant upon the final two days of the tournament many interesting sidelights were temporarily overlooked. Not the least of these was the activity of the American foreign newspaper correspondents to report what was without doubt the greatest golf tournament ever held in the world. The correspondents, sent to report what was without doubt the greatest golf tournament ever held in the world, were sent over the wires, and 24,000 by cable to London and Edinburgh during the five days of play. It required some well known on the part of the golf writers to cover the field, and some amusing incidents occurred. One visiting English correspondent will probably remember the event for some years.

While the young American golfer was busy overturning English golfing traditions, the correspondents were equally busy in establishing another new handling record for a golf event in the little press room at the country club.
More in a matter of a quarter of an hour were sent over the wires, and 24,000 by cable to London and Edinburgh during the five days of play. It required some
well known on the part of the golf
writers to cover the field, and some amusing incidents occurred. One visiting English correspondent will probably remember the event for some years.

When Vardon holed his putt on the 134 green on Friday, tying Ray for first place, the Englishman strode into the press room and confidently sent a cable announcing that Vardon and Ray had vanquished the Yankee field and would have a little match Saturday to see who would carry back the title. Quimet at the time was in the "slough of despond" on the 11th hole and appeared to be impossible as a winner. British golfing supremacy lasted nearly three-quarters of an hour or until Quimet holed his long putt for a 3 on the 11st green.

It is a 440-yard run from the green to the club house, and the English correspondent did it close to Olympic figures, but the first dispatch already was well sent. London and on the way to Seattle, Hong Kong and Melbourne. The next day the Englishman waited until Quimet had sunk his last putt on the final green before announcing the new champion. But again he was beaten, for another foreign correspondent had flashed the winner when Vardon and Ray drove into the press room on Saturday, and Quimet with four strokes in his bag stood alone behind a perfect lie in the center of the fair green waiting for his already beaten opponents to play the old.

Field Dogs Are Tried.

The admirer of the field dog in active competition is at the present moment riding his hobby at top speed. Field trials are being held in all parts of the United States and Canada. Large acreage has been leased in various sections, and reports from the spectators of the various meets report an abundance of game and large entry lists. Prizes ranging from $100 to $1,000 are being offered, and the competition for these prizes is to be unusually close. The breeders of field dogs and the gunner who believes that shooting over a perfectly trained pointer and retriever is one of the best features of the sport, is preparing to spend as many days as possible this autumn tramping over turf and through brush behind the field dogs and their judges.

That he will have plenty of opportunities to satisfy his desire in the matter is shown by the long schedule of trials already carried for autumn and coming winter.

Among the more important field events that are to be decided within the next few months are the following: Southern Ohio field trials, opening today near Norwood, Ohio; American field trials at Hutonsville, Ill., next Thursday; Independent field trials over the same course
November 10; Georgia field trials at Waynesboro, Ga., November 24; International trials at Windsor, Ont., four days
earlier; Continental trials at Waynesboro, Ga., on December 1; Virginia-Carolina trials, Chase City, Va., December 2;
Pointer club trials, same course, December 7; Southern trials, Lotobatchie,
Ala., December 8; National club trials,
same course, December 15; United States
trials, Grand Junction, Tenn., January
5-14; All-American trials, Rogers Springs,
Tenn., January 12 and 13; National championships, Grand Junction, Tenn., January 15.

SURPRISES IN EAST

WEAKNESS CROPS OUT IN BIG TEAMS AND SMALL ONES ARE STRONG.

Colgate's Defeat of Yale Disappoints
Blue Supporters—Harvard Shows Up Well.

New York, Nov. 2.—On fast fields and with no adverse weather conditions to mar their play, eastern football eleven on Saturday for the first time this season furnished followers of the gridiron sport something of a comparative nature on which to figure the probable outcome of the remaining important games of the season. Surprises were many; surprises of weakness in some of the leading university teams and surprises of strength in some of the smaller college eleven that resulted in scores totally at variance with the expectations of several big team coaches.

Last week's hard practice showed a remarkable return to form of the Princeton eleven and an equally remarkable slump in the Yale camp.

Colgate's defeat of Yale by the decisive score of 16 to 6 demonstrated that much work must be done at New Haven if Harvard and Princeton are to be kept from adding to the gloom in that camp. Yale, weak in the line and handicapped by the loss of Cornlah at quarterback, who retired in the second period with a broken jaw that will keep him out of the game the rest of the season, was unable to stop the visitors' consistent offense. Colgate won by superior playing in every department of the game.

With Holy Cross never once threatening the Princeton goal, the Tigers came back strong after their defeat of the week before by Dartmouth and won 54 to 0. It was a demonstration of reconstruction of a football team.
Frequent penalties for offside and using the hands showed the Tigers have much room for improvement.

Harvard vanquished Cornell with ease, substitutions by the Crimsons in the last period alone saving the Itha-cans from being shut out of the scoring altogether.

Harvard scored in each of the three periods that Brickley, Storer and Hardwick were in the line.

Notre Dame's Invasion Success.

The successful eastern invasion of the Notre Dame eleven, in which the army team was outclassed, was not as big surprise in this section as Yale's defeat, although the cadets were expected to make a better showing than the score of 35 to 13 indicates. Notre Dame's spectacular open play came as a revelation to eastern critics. The forward pass was responsible for all the western eleven's scoring, twelve of the fourteen attempts being successful.

The University of Pittsburgh's team victors over Cornell and Carlele and held by many close followers of the game to be the equal of any eleven in the east, met defeat by Bucknell, which won on merit.

While Notre Dame's eastern trip was resulting in success, the western invasion by Syracuse proved a miserable failure, the University of Michigan rolling up a score of 43 to 7.

The University of Pennsylvania's defeat of Pennsylvania State college, which Harvard held to a 23 to 0 score a week ago, and the defeat by Carlele of Georgetown university were expected results of the day's play.

While the Army was losing to Notre Dame, her old-time rivals at Annapolis were defeating Lehigh with ease.
The Navy plunked through her opponents' line almost at will, worked the forward pass and kicked goals from placement and carried off the honors with second string men in the game in its latter stages.

Dartmouth, which won over Princeton a week before by 6 to 0, defeated Amherst 21 to 7 in a hard fought contest.

Dartmouth won by straight football.
Of the eastern games, the showing of Yale was the most disappointing feature of Saturday's results. Passing from a no-score tie against Washington and Jefferson to a defeat by Colgate gave Eli enthusiasts little to look forward to in the coming contests against the strong Harvard eleven or against Princeton.

Chicago and Minnesota Even Up.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Saturday's football battles witnessed a showing of supremacy by Chicago and Minnesota in the western intercollegiate conference.
This result pits the Gophers against the Maroons in two weeks for the undoubted championship of the "big nine." The decision in practically all the games in the middle west demonstrated that old style conservative attack was not a winner against aggressive attack coupled with the open game.

Saturday's "big nine" results cleared the way for a titanic struggle between Chicago and Minnesota at Rush Field, between Chicago and Minnesota. The game will be a struggle between teams almost even in honors, not only for this year, but for the series of games. Minnesota has won five games from Chicago, Chicago was victor in four.
One meeting resulted in a 6-point tie.

This year Minnesota has suffered a defeat, has scored ninety points and had ten scored against it. Chicago to date is the only undefeated team in the "big nine." It has scored 78 points and had twenty scored against it.

Harvard Center Injured.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 2.—Trumbull, the Harvard varsity center, sustained a serious bruise of his side in yesterday's game with Cornell. The injury will keep him out of the Princeton game next Saturday and may prevent his playing again this season. Otherwise, the coaches announced tonight, the squad came through Saturday's contest in excellent shape.

Eddie Mahan, the halfback who has been confined to the infirmary on account of a sprained knee, was today in the slight operation performed on the injured foot last night. It is doubtful whether he will be in condition to play Saturday against the Tigers.

White Sox 9, Giants 4.

Houston, Nov. 2.—The Chicago Americans defeated the New York Nationals 9 to 4 here this afternoon before a large crowd of fans. The terrific hitting of Crawford for the White Sox featured while Fromme American field futurity at Hutonsville, Ill., next Thursday. Independent field trials over the same course
November 10; Georgia field trials at Waynesboro, Ga., November 24; International trials at Windsor, Ont., four days
earlier; Continental trials at Waynesboro, Ga., on December 1; Virginia-Carolina trials, Chase City, Va., December 2;
Pointer club trials, same course, December 7; Southern trials, Lotobatchie,
Ala., December 8; National club trials,
same course, December 15; United States
trials, Grand Junction, Tenn., January
5-14; All-American trials, Rogers Springs,
Tenn., January 12 and 13; National championships, Grand Junction, Tenn., January 15.

Yale Calls for Help.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 2.—Yale football coaches held a "council of war" today and decided to send out a hurried call for all former players to assist in rounding the team into shape for the Princeton and Harvard games. There is much gloom at Yale as the result of Saturday's defeat by Colgate, but the loss of Cornlah at quarterback is even more keenly felt. Thompson and Hannon, who succeeded him Saturday, failed to impress, and it is thought Fullback Wilson, who played quarter earlier in the season,
may be drafted for the position.

"MATTY" CATCHES THE GOLF FEVER.

MATTHEWSON AND DONLIN PLAYING GOLF AT SIOUX CITY

An ardent devotee of the clerk and the driver, "Christy" Mathewson has been showing his form as a golfer as well as a baseball player to Western admirers during the early stages of his world tour with the New York Giants.
As can be noted by a glance at the accompanying picture, "Matty" does not carry his baseball stroke with him to the tee, but has developed a "follow through" that will make even stylists envious. Deeked out in his golf toes, "Matty" is seen in action on the links. "Mike" Donlin, also of the Giants, and a golfer, stands respectfully by.

TECH IS COME BACK

GEORGIA SCHOOL SPRINGS BIG-GEST SURPRISE IN SOUTHERN FOOTBALL CAMPS.

Vanderbilt a Disappointment—Straight Football Features All Over Dixie.

Atlanta, Nov. 2.—Yesterday's games on southern gridirons in addition to presenting a number of surprising up-sets in form, gave football experts the first real basis for comparing the strength of the various eleven competing for S. I. A. A. honors of 1913.

Viewed from the present angle,
Georgia Tech's victory over Sewanee probably was the greatest surprise of the day. Tech's poor showing the week before against Florida was the basis for predictions that Sewanee, always a strong contender for southern football honors, would easily defeat the Georgians. Tech, however, showed a complete reversal of earlier form and won handily 28 to 0. This means that Auburn, Georgia and Vanderbilt will have to consider Tech

a dangerous factor in the fight.

Vanderbilt again yesterday disappointed its supporters by the poor showing made against Virginia. When it is recalled that Virginia was able to win from Georgia only the week before by the narrow margin of one touchdown, and that in the last three minutes of play, Vanderbilt's defeat, 34 to 0, would seem to indicate that the Commodores are far from being as strong as the Georgia eleven, Auburn again demonstrated that it has an unusually strong team by winning from Louisiana State University 17 to 0.

Straight Football Features.

That style of play known as "straight football" again was the fashion yesterday throughout the south. Georgia, Auburn and Tech relied almost entirely upon their churning ability and occasional end runs for ground gaining, trick formations and forward passes being infrequent and generally unsuccessful.

Georgia struck a tartar in the North Carolina team yesterday but won after a hard fight by the close score of 19 to 6. This contest was especially interesting in view of the coming Virginia-North Carolina game. Considering the comparative showing of Georgia against Virginia and Georgia against North Carolina, the Charlotteville eleven should win from its traditional rivals.

There are a number of interesting

1,000 Citizens to Attend Cotton Pal-

November 6.

West, Texas, Nov. 2.—A rousing mass-meeting of West citizens was held at the city hall to make arrangements and plans for West-Bohemian day at the Cotton Palace November 6.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor H. B. Ingraham, who stated the purpose of the meeting.
Mr. Pazzral was elected secretary and made a motion that the meeting go on record as favoring the entire town of West joining in the celebration of this day, and that all business houses close.
This motion was unanimously carried,
and great applause. The following committees were appointed:
Committee to ask business men to close
—J. E. McGhee, chairman; D. Blume, J.
L. Jones.

zens of West and surrounding country.

Sacrifice Sale of Real Estate

To be sold at the courthouse door Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, under the hammer, the Cornish building on Elm street, East Waco—building 56x100 feet, pressed brick front. Mr. J. T. Cason and Mr.
Jimmie Harrison, contractors, say it would cost at least $12,000 to build. On account of litigation the building has been vacant, but for $1,500 it can be fixed up and rented for at least $200 per month, which would pay interest on $24,000. This property sought to carry a loan of $10,000. You might be able to buy this at a great bargain—say $13,000 to $18,000—a bargain at either price. Interurban runs right by the door. Did you ever stop to think about 4,000 people live in East Waco? It has the car line and good prospects of a $300,000 bank.
Be sure to come to the sale. Call at our office for further information.

POLICE LOOK FOR OUTLAW CARS

AUTOMOBILES FROM DALLAS REPORTED IN SERVICE HERE.

EASY MONEY MEN IN DANGER

Authorities Will Prosecute Owners or Drivers of Cars Doing Business Without License.

That there are a number of out-of-town automobile owners who have come to Waco to "make" the Cotton Palace with their machines for hire, is the report that comes to the local drivers of rent cars and the police.

On good authority it is reported that three Dallas "rent" cars are in the city, as well as one or two from other towns. It is said some of these cars will be started, and the police, with the assistance of local drivers, are on the watch for them.

Will Protect Local Men.
The city commission and the chief of police have refused to grant license to a driver of a rent car who is not a resident of the city and who merely comes to Waco to get the "easy pickings" as the police term it during the exposition. This stand is taken in other cities, and is for the protection of the local men who maintain their cars for hire during all months of the year.

At the present time there are fifty-eight automobiles in the city for hire. These belong to resident owners, and resident drivers. Under ordinary conditions there are approximately forty cars for hire in the city. During Cotton Palace many private cars are placed in livery. This swelled the number in use up to yesterday to fifty-eight.

Question of Good Service.

The officers take the stand that the local auto drivers can take care of the crowds, and, on this basis and as a matter of protection, the outsider is eliminated when it comes to obtaining license to run his car for hire during the exposition. The officers came to this conclusion from two reasons, the primary one being that the out-of-town driver was unfamiliar with streets and house numbers, therefore could not give good service to his patrons, and also because they believed the local drivers should be protected from an influx of machines when there was an opportunity for them to keep their cars in service.

Secretary John C. Davis of the city said yesterday: "The fifty-eight licenses issued for drivers of automobiles are to home boys, not an outsider being represented among them. The greater number are regular drivers who man for rent cars the year round, and the others are residents who are familiar with the city and dependable."

Mr. Davis also stated that the local drivers were watching out for the man who hopes to do a for rent business with his car without obtaining a license, and that they have their eyes on a few who are expected to engage in this.

COTTON PALACE IN MOVIES

Scenes From the Big Show and Stellar Exhibits to Be Displayed on Picture Screen.

The Texas Cotton Palace, in all its beauty and grandeur, is to be put into the moving picture films, and will be shown at various places in the state.

J. A. Lemke, manager of the Crystal theater, has arranged with F. M. Sanford, secretary-treasurer of the State Film company of Austin, to be here for three or four days this week and make yards and yards of films.

The pictures will include the Cotton Palace views complete, and after they have been developed they will be shown at the Crystal theater in this city.

Manager Lemke is doing this so as to show the Cotton Palace as it will appear in the "movies," believing it will prove attractive. Mr. Sanford will bring with him a company of moving picture actors to take the principal parts in the production, Mrs. Sanford being the leading lady of the combination.

WOMEN DISLIKE THE 1913 STYLES

BUT WEAR THEM TO BE STYLISH, SAYS REV. F. J. HARRELL.

MAN IS A BORN IMITATOR

Pastor of the Brook Avenue Baptist Church Urges the Imitation of Christ in Daily Life.

"Imitators" was the title given by Rev. F. J. Harrell to the sermon preached by him to a large congregation at Brook Avenue Baptist church yesterday morning. Taking his text from St. Paul's epistle to the Ephesians, 5:1, the pastor said:

"The apostle Paul is the writer here, and in the fourth chapter he is exhorting the Ephesians to live as children of God should. He exhorts them first of all to unity (verses 3-6), then to put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness (verse 24), and live so as not to grieve the Holy Spirit (verse 30), and reaches his climax in the first verse of the fifth chapter by saying, 'Be ye imitators of God.'"

"We are all imitators. The child imitates what he sees and hears in the home. A child in a minister's home will often be holding services, in a teacher's home will be teaching, and in the home where the parents are not Christians will be acting as they do. And grown people also are imitators. Christians do not believe in the dance and theater and all kinds of worldliness, but because some allow their children to attend these places, they will just imitate others, is all."

Women Imitate Fashion.

"Not many women like the styles of dress these days, but they imitate them, and wear them. Now the great apostle says if you want to act right and really be happy in life, imitate God. How may we imitate him?"

"1. In what he is. Of course, we cannot imitate him in his attributes, such as omnipotence, immutability, omniscience and omnipresence, but there are truths about him which we can imitate and one thing is his holiness. God is good and holy, and to the extent that we strive to be like him, to that extent we are imitating his holiness. God has no sin about him. If he did have he could not be God. Men are unholy; even the purest of men have their spots. It is useful to contrast the character of God, in this respect, with that of men. It increases our admiration and love, adds fervor to our devotion, incites to worship him in the beauty of holiness, and to imitate him in our character and lives."

"2. All of the works of God are for the benefit and uplift of others. He can never be accused of doing that which is wrong. As the ancient saints delighted in the will and government of God, so they delighted in his works."

Be Like God.
"The wisdom, goodness and mercy displayed in God's works awakens gratitude in the heart of a Christian and makes him want to be more like his God. God forgives in a way that excites in his children a longing to do as he has done."

"God sacrificed for this world in such marvelous way that the Christian adores with all his heart. A Christian cannot consider the sacrifice of God and be stingy, covetous nor conservative, but will with open heart and life want to be like him."

Who May Imitate Christ.
"Is it possible to imitate God? It is for his children, not for others. The one who has not surrendered to Jesus for life salvation cannot in any sense imitate God. It takes regeneration and not imitation to make one a Christian. Faith in the Son of God makes one God's child and nothing else. Then when one becomes a child of God he may begin to imitate God."

"The old nature is against God; the new nature is of God and for him, so it is possible to the Christian only to imitate God."

Nature to Imitate.
"It is easy and natural for the child to try to imitate its parent. But God has not left us to ourselves. He has given us his Holy Spirit to help us in our time of need. He, the Holy Spirit, will take the things of God and show them unto us. Likewise also the spirit helps our infirmity. If we do not understand God, the Spirit will help; if we cannot pray aright, the Spirit himself maketh intercession for us; if we are not certain as to the right, he will guide us into all truth; whereas we do not know, he will surely teach."

"Imitate. This is saved to the last because I want it to stick. You do not set God right, not to plan where in he may follow you. You are to imitate him."

"There is no place in all the word of God that says for you to do that which others approve, or consult your own convenience, or do as you please. You are to imitate him. Imitating is not making laws for God, but keeping those he has made. Imitating is not telling God how to act, but acting as he has."

"May God help us to imitate him until that time when we shall awake in his likeness."

FARMER DRINKS POISON.

Richard Williams Dies at Home Near Mullin.

Mullin, Tex., Nov. 2.—The death of Richard Williams, a well-known farmer residing about two miles from this place, occurred Sunday from carbolic acid poisoning. The tragedy occurred at the residence of his brother-in-law, Oscar Kelise, whom Williams was visiting at the time with his wife. Williams, who was a member of the family about a fire, Mr. Williams arose and stepped outside without making any explanation as to where he was going. A few moments he returned and informed his wife of what he had done. The full contents of a small vial of the poison was swallowed and he died a few hours later. The body was sent to Goldthwaite for interment.

Mane of Goldthwaite.
Goldthwaite, Tex., Nov. 1.—The congregation of the Presbyterian church has awarded the contract for the erection of a residence or mane for the pastor of the church and work has already commenced on same, the site chosen being a lot adjoining the church building.

HUNT FOR $25 GIRL

MAN WHO DISCOVERS IDENTITY WILL AT ONCE RECEIVE THE MONEY.

Chase of the Girl of the Golden Treasure Naval Feature of Cotton Palace November 11.

Reviving the interesting pleasure of a search for the mysterious, the Young Men's Business League will create a lot of fun for those who attend the Cotton Palace on the evening of November 11, the day set apart for that live business organization.

On Y. M. B. L. Day the thousand members of the organization will all go to the Cotton Palace. They will take part in every pleasure of the day, will invite their friends to join them and will be hosts to the members of other Young Men's Business Leagues in Texas, who will come for the great affair on that occasion.

Will See the Chickens.
They will attend the shows on the Warpath, will visit all the exhibits, will watch the great free acts in their dare-devilment, will buy their lunch on the grounds from the good women who are serving for the benefit of their churches, and they will go to the chicken show to pick out pullets for purchase.

All of these things will occupy them while the day passes, and each one will carry some kind of a badge to let people know that he is one of the great army of young men who are boosting for Waco and for the Cotton Palace.

Then the Big Show.
But it is in the evening that the big show will be pulled off. It will start on the grounds and will end in a grand ball. The league has set apart $25 to be given away. This $25 is to be given into the possession of a young woman, who is to be known for the occasion as the "Mysterious Miss Raffles." Miss Raffles will be one of the most active of all those on the grounds. She will drink soda water with her friends, will visit the booths and the exhibits, will be at the chicken show, the flower show and the educational exhibit.

Find the Girl and Get $25.
All during the evening she will mingle with the crowds and while she is mingling she will add with her $25 in money—not stage money—but real money, which is to be given to the person who first finds her out. The identification is not to be of the nature of "I tag you, you are it," because a fellow could keep tagging all the evening and some girl might "tag" him back. But it has been decided that certain words are to be the open sesame to the pocket book.

The Winning Words.
Some time ago the Y. M. B. L. of the Young Men's Business League, these words, and only these, spoken in the order in which they are here written, are the prize winners. It need not be in oratory or in whisper, but sufficiently loud for the Mysterious Miss Raffles to hear them, and promptly she will hand over the money. When she is thus discovered, found and disclosed, she no longer will be the treasure bearer for the league, but she becomes then the principal young lady of the ball which is to follow. It is arranged that President W. V. Crawford of the Y. M. B. L. is to lead the ball, and as his partner for the occasion will be the "girl of the golden treasure."

The fellows of the Y. M. B. L. expect it to be a big stunt and they hope to have a big crowd out to join with them in the big affair.

PEDDLER CAR BAN ADOPTED

State Railroad Commission Refuses to Allow Special Rates for Hand-lining Groceries.

There will be no "peddler cars" for groceries in this state. Some time ago a petition was presented to the railroad commission of Texas asking that rates be fixed for peddler cars to handle groceries. Such a rate allows a man to load a car with the commodity he wished to handle, and transport it from one part of the state to another, stopping at various points along the line for a day or two days, and peddling the stuff from the side door, paying a demurrage charge for each day the car is so used as a store, his rate for transportation from point of origin to point of destination being the cheapest allowed.

Merchants Protested.
It has been carried on the matter of fruits for several years. Waco merchants have protested against it, and the city commission of Waco started the ball to moving in Texas by passing an ordinance prohibiting operation of peddler cars in this city.

Now comes the railroad commission with an order that the application recently made for peddler cars to handle groceries is dismissed and there will be no such rates allowed.

NEWSIES AT Y. M. C. A. BATHS.

Water Was a Bit Chilly, But Boys Were Warmly Welcomed.

Members of the Senior and Messenger Boys Club took their initial plunge into the new pool at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock and though the water was a little too cool to be perfectly comfortable, the management of the association promises to have the heating apparatus working soon and the water will then be more inviting. Secretary Flowers of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. gave the "newsies" and messengers permission to come to the pool and enjoy a bath and swim every Sunday afternoon, these to be preceded each time by a twenty-minute devotional service. Tickets entitling the boys to the swim will be given out each Friday at the regular meeting of the club at the Y. M. B. L. rooms and the boys are delighted with the prospect of a weekly visit to the Y. Admission is free and the youngsters are grateful for this consideration shown them by the management of the Y. M. C. A.

The Wonderful Sanger Showing of Gowns and Dresses for the Social Festivities--Especially Attractive Gowns, Individual and Exclusive Styles for The Society Ball at The Cotton Palace Wednesday Night

The Society Ball at the Cotton Palace next Wednesday night will eclipse any social event that Waco has known. We have sold many Gowns and Dresses for this occasion and many more will be selected from our displays today, tomorrow and next day. Each of these beautiful models, whether the creation of Premet, Poriet, Drecoll or other famous courtiers who are represented in our showing, each model exhibits some distinctive style phase in trimmings, buttons, ribbons and other effects that sets it off and apart from all the others. Our remarkable display and exhibition at the Cotton Palace of this character of Gowns and Dresses is amazing the throngs of visitors and Waco women alike—stunning creations that have no duplicates—and you will be still more amazed if you visit our Women's Apparel department on the second floor at the Sanger Store and view our complete assemblage of high class apparel.

This Store Will Close Promptly at One O'clock Tomorrow, Waco Day at The Cotton Palace In An Effort To Do Its Part Toward Making a "Real Waco Day"

The people of Waco are proud of the Cotton Palace of 1913, and justly, too, for the Governor of this State, who has time and again addressed and witnessed expositions in all cities of Texas, made the statement Saturday night, "This is by all odds the very best opening I have ever witnessed in Texas on the initial day of any fair or exposition of the kind." People are coming to Waco from a distance of many miles to do honor to our Cotton Palace and the management of this store, as always, wants to do any and everything toward making the Cotton Palace the biggest kind of a success. To allow our employes to take part in the demonstration, we will close promptly at One o'clock tomorrow, Waco Day.

The House of Sanger Brothers Extends a Hearty Welcome to All Cotton Palace Visitors

The Sanger Exhibition is a Prominent Feature At The Cotton Palace

Beginning with the first Cotton Palace, the Sanger exhibitions have always been elaborate, but this year's exhibit surpasses in every way all previous triumphs. Our decorating department has spared neither time nor money in the arrangement of this exhibit, and the merchandise shown was selected with the idea of showing to the people of Texas the finest collections of the "beautiful" that the fashion world afforded. As has been remarked by many who have witnessed this exhibit, it is in a class to itself.

To set off the beauty of the merchandise and to make the exhibit still more distinguished, the famous $50,000 painting, "La Forge," by De Mareau, was secured. It was painted in the same shop as was the "Village Blacksmith," but everything about it is seemingly more perfect and different. The figure of the smithy is stronger in drawing and more splendid in color, and the three lights seem like three chords of music, so perfectly do they fit in through the genius of this master painter.

Immediately across the aisle from our main exhibit is our special display of "Free" Sewing Machines and of Victor Victrolas. Also a display of Cedar Mops and Oils.

Looks Like a High Trump.
The shape of it depends upon the nomenclature with which the spectator is most familiar. To some it looks like the ace of spades, the others it has the appearance of a big heart, to others it appears as an oval, the poultry expert would say that it has the form of an egg. There is some suggestion that it be called "Lookie park" in honor of T. W. Lackie of the paving company. It has a complete concrete curb about it, and the regulation concrete gutter, inside will be filled with fertile soil and regular will be planted.
